Warning on theft of vital materials

A WARNING to would-be thieves of medicinal materials for the maintenance of public services was issued yesterday by a Nairobi Magistrate. Mr. M. Hornby, when he sentenced three Africans to a total of almost seven years' hard labour after finding them guilty of charges connected with the theft of copper wire from cables which were the property of the East African Power and Lighting Company, and the Posts and Telegraphs Department.

'In dead night'

The thefts of the stolen property which they steal is valuable in itself and because of the damage to the cables and wires, which are necessary for the maintenance of the public services of the country. The stolen property was found in the possession of a fourth man who was arrested last night in connection with the theft of copper wire from cables which were the property of the East African Power and Lighting Company, and the Posts and Telegraphs Department.

AMERICAN DEMAND FOR AFRICAN PYRETHRUM

Prices may be more favourable. The American demand for African pyrethrum has been increasing steadily. The United States is the largest importer of pyrethrum, and the demand is expected to continue to grow. The price of pyrethrum has risen sharply in recent months, and this has led to a shortage of the material in some areas. It is hoped that the price will fall in the near future, which would be a relief to producers and consumers alike.

Firm policy

The Finance Commission, which the Board was empowered, has decided to issue a firm policy. The Commission has concluded that the Government should maintain a firm policy in relation to the exchange rate. This policy is necessary to ensure the stability of the economy and to protect the interests of the country. The Commission has also decided to issue a firm policy in relation to the money supply. This policy is necessary to ensure that the money supply is kept under control and that inflation is kept to a minimum.

Soil experts at Naivasha

Soil experts are at Naivasha to study the soil conditions in the area. The experts are from the United States and are part of a team that has been sent to study the soil conditions in the area. The team will be working for several weeks and will be conducting a series of experiments to determine the best way to use the soil. The results of the experiments will be used to develop a soil conservation plan for the area. This plan will be used to guide the development of the area and to ensure that the soil is used in a sustainable way.

Pro-British

The motor attributed the spectacular rise in the price of the pound sterling. The motor is believed to be the result of a number of factors, including the increase in the demand for the pound sterling and the decrease in the supply of the pound sterling. The motor is expected to continue to rise in the near future, which would be a relief to the British economy.

Nakuru view on record books

Mr. Dennis said that an enormous amount of work had to be done in order to compile the record books. The work was done by a number of people who were working in the office. The record books are now ready for use and will be used to guide the development of the area. The record books are a valuable asset and will be used for many years to come.

Seventy children enter art contest

Seventy children entered the art contest. The contest was held in Nakuru and was open to all children of primary school age. The children were given a week to prepare their entries and the contest was held on Friday. The entries were judged by a panel of judges and the winners were announced. The contest was a great success and the children enjoyed it very much.

LOCKE TAKES 75 AT MOMBASA

The 'brotons' never too fast, he says

YOU have a grand record for the season. You are one of the hardest hitters I have had for a long time," said Bobby Locke after yesterday's four-ball match at Mombasa when he went round in 75. The course record is 69 and par is 70. It was a game of fluctuating fortunes. The local pair gained an early lead of 15 holes but were overtaken by the third round. The pair finished at 117, Locke with 75 and the visitor with 42. Locke took 41 on the 18th, but his partner layed the game off on the 19th. He had a 100 but lost his back and Locke had to play with the eighth. Locke was having a good deal of trouble with his putting. "The 'brotons' must not put for a long time," he said, "but they have been better with this covering now."

Locke and his partner took the lead for the first time at the 18th hole when he hit a brilliant shot which landed in the hole. Locke was leading 1-11 at the 19th. He had a 100 but lost his back and Locke had to play with the eighth. Locke was having a good deal of trouble with his putting. The flop that was Wilding

By FREDIE MILLAR

THINK I know Jack Salton's position on the well and good but last week's was a flop. I recall when no fanfare was accorded. At the time Jack explained to me that he was not a professional golfer. He was a member of the club and he was not to be taken too seriously. He made no difference. I should have known better. I was not a professional golfer. I was a member of the club and he was not to be taken too seriously.

There are two things I should like to say about the "no contest" decision. The first is that it was a pity that Wilding Tiger team he is not to be taken too seriously. The second is that it was a pity that the "no contest" decision was made by the "no contest" decision.

Learning golf IN THE BOBBY LOCKE MANNER

Standard Golf Correspondent

THE instructional talk and demonstration given by Bobby Locke prior to his exhibition matches during his tour of Kenya has proved to be of the greatest value to those many spectators who were present. Under the leadership of one who is, undeniably, the greatest golfer of his generation, the methods of the British Isles are being passed on to the continent.

NEW DRIER IMPROVES THE QUALITY OF SISAL

Experiments on Ruiru estate

THE "STANDARD" AGRICULTURAL Commission has reported on the drying of many primary products by artificial methods...

The reason for its focus on the greater efficiency and speed of artificial drying is apparent from the rapidity and delay of sun drying under normal conditions.

New development

This coffee, tobacco, pyrethrum and other crops are dried by artificial drying methods of one sort or another...

The drier is operated by steam from a motor engine on the site and drives all the rollers on the shaft of a motor on a standard steel conveyor from the side to the drive of a motor.

The drier is supplied by steam from a Marshall boiler and is transmitted through the belt of a motor on the shaft of a motor on the side of a motor on a standard steel conveyor from the side to the drive of a motor.

The three fans supply 10,000 cubic feet of air per hour and are driven by a motor on the shaft of a motor on the side of a motor on a standard steel conveyor from the side to the drive of a motor.

The sisal from the decorticator, on the right in the picture above passes through the three centrifugal washing machines in the centre and is then fed by hand into the drying tunnel, shown in the left. Through the American machine in the foreground below comes the refuse which is prepared and packed into bales for export.

'A GREAT FUTURE' FOR THE DAIRY SHORTHORN

BEFORE leaving Kenya to re-join the East African Agricultural Commission, Mr. H. J. Mercer, Dairy Specialist, Inspector of Milk, has written something to say to Shorthorn breeders about the prospects for their breed in Kenya.

Speaking at a Dairy Day held at the Royal Kerenia Hotel, Mr. Mercer said that the Shorthorn breed in Kenya had a great future on regards to milk production, and that the breed was well adapted to the conditions of the country.

NEW PYRETHRUM BREEDING METHODS EXPLAINED AT MOLO

Station now concentrates on plants

NEW pyrethrum breeding methods to overcome dangers of sterility enhanced by in-breeding was described by the Department of Agriculture's Pyrethrum Station at Molo.

The new method involves the selection and placement in the garden of plants which combine desirable characteristics in the cross.

The snags which have been planted in isolated plots, there has been a marked increase in the yield of the plants.

'Slow business' The plant breeding work undertaken at the station has been slow but steady.

The breeder then picked out the plants he liked best and in a few days had a number of plants selected which were to be increased in the next year.

Effect of rain Here in Kenya, therefore, a new method of breeding pyrethrum plants is being used.

MACHINES FOR 100 FARMS UNDER ONE ROOF

Many new ideas at Smithfield

By L. F. Easterbrook

BY the very nature of the variety of the land within their own country, farmers are strong individualists. Few of them believe that any other farmer has quite the same problems as themselves, yet they can always find common ground at the great agricultural shows. There they see farming problems, not as personal or regional, but as national and world problems, and there they find their own solutions.

Such a common meeting ground is the Smithfield Show and Agricultural Machinery Exhibition, organized by one of the oldest agricultural societies in the world, the Royal Society of Arts, which is always well represented by the best of the best of the great London Exhibition Hall, Earls Court.

A view of the 1950 Smithfield Show and Agricultural Machinery Exhibition.

150 years ago

It was over 150 years ago, in 1798, that the Smithfield Club was formed. It was the first of its kind which arose out of the fact that the farmers of the day were in need of a place to display their produce. The club has since then been a constant feature of the agricultural scene in London, and its members have always been active in promoting the interests of the farming community.

Britain's farmers today are spending about £10,000,000 a year on agricultural machinery. This is a vast sum of money, and it is a clear indication of the importance of the industry to the country. The machinery is used for a wide range of purposes, from ploughing and sowing to harvesting and transport. It is a vital part of the farmer's equipment, and without it, the country would be unable to produce the food that it needs.

The great advantage of the Smithfield Show and Agricultural Machinery Exhibition is that it brings together all the latest machinery and equipment in one place. This allows farmers to see the new machines and compare them with the ones they are currently using. It also allows them to see the latest developments in agricultural machinery, and to learn about the latest techniques for using the machinery. This is a very valuable service, and it is one that is well appreciated by the farming community.

New plough

Nevertheless, there will be plenty of things that are new. A firm which has a wide reputation among the world's farmers, the John Deere Co., has introduced a new plough. This is a very important machine, and it is one that is well appreciated by the farming community. The new plough is designed to be used in a wide range of conditions, and it is a very versatile machine. It is a very valuable addition to the farmer's equipment, and it is one that is well appreciated by the farming community.

Honoured awards

There are a number of awards given at the show, and these are a very important part of the exhibition. The awards are given to the best machines and equipment, and they are a very valuable recognition of the quality of the work. The 'Snow Men' Of America Have Already Been In Action

South Africa stands on the verge of the hot season, America has already had a taste of winter.

And the pictures on this page give a vivid idea of what the winter storm can mean. Already—although snow as early as November is rare—there have been such snows in places as far south as Philadelphia.

A heavy snowfall can disrupt the complex economy of the country, it can prevent food deliveries to population centres, halt shipments of coal and other raw materials to industries and make it impossible for workers to reach their jobs.

And so, snow removal has become a major task in the United States and being known a snowmen cover icy streets and major highway, non-commercial teams are ready to free them and other transportation lines. By the time the first flakes begin to fall, snow-removal equipment is in operation.

Usually a snow storm is forecast a day or even more before it occurs, and the snow-removal crews are standing by when the storm hits.

They must be removed quickly before it packs and road traffic is held up. Special equipment has been designed to accomplish this.

As can be seen from the picture, action is not only necessary to clear the streets, but also to clear the roofs of buildings. The snowmen are using their efforts to clear roofs to prevent snow from accumulating on large cities. They are usually applied to the streets when the snow begins to fall. They will melt light snow or form a wet base for a heavy snowfall, preventing the formation of ice and facilitating mechanical removal.

The chemists are experimenting with compounds that can be added to the salts to prevent corrosion of the metal of vehicles that pass over snow-covered streets.

The area most affected is the snow belt north of an approximate latitude of which are many of the larger cities, South, Minneapolis, Chicago, Pittsburgh, Philadelphia, New York and Mexico. (U.S.A.)

DISABLED CHILDREN FACE A HAPPIER FUTURE

By Bernard Minns

THEY dig sixty-year-old Antoni Kozak out of the debris after a German raid on Lodz in Poland. A small quivering figure, he was taken to the rudimentary wartime hospital where his crushed legs were amputated. There was no mother or father to calm his fears as he lay stricken in his bed. For he had both been killed in the attack. A double loss, doubly heavy for long time, to remember those who had tragically died in the years that followed. Gradually, the disabled survivors recovered a little under the skillful treatment of the staff. He was reassured a sad and silent child and gradually re-entered the gentle company of the nurses.

War victims

Walking again

It was not till Antoni was sent to Sweden that he had a special home for handicapped children in 1948. This rehabilitation centre, opened in the life around child, had a physiotherapy department with artificial legs and even built his own motor cycle. He was expected to take part in the home-manipulated activities. It was not long before he was walking happily after his small permanent and finally freeing the moment of the cancelled year. He was given the greatest care and attention by the staff, for he was a patient who had suffered a double loss.

Training course

YET the use of this equipment is not only for training purposes. It is recognized that the United Nations Children's Fund (UNICEF) and the World Health Organization (WHO) are conducting a training course in London. This course is designed to help the disabled children in their own countries.

Modern approach

THE story of Antoni Kozak is a story of a modern approach to the rehabilitation of disabled children. It is a story of a child who has been given a second chance. It is a story of a child who has been given a chance to live a normal life.

MORE CUTS FROM KENYA BUDGET

Unofficials continue drive COMPROMISE REMOVES QUARTER FROM £100,000 ITEM

KENYA GOVERNMENT and Unofficial Members yesterday came to a compromise in Legislative Council over an item to the effect of £100,000 item—covering 'reduction in cost of foodstuffs'—from the Colony's draft estimates for the expenditure (Civil).

Both sides agreed that for the time being should be £60,000 out of the figure and that the remaining £40,000 be put aside for the statement on the item by the Member for Agriculture.

The Unofficial Members also agreed that, if the £40,000 was not sufficient to cover demands, the Member for Agriculture could use the support again with the Council.

Both sides agreed that for the time being should be £60,000 out of the figure and that the remaining £40,000 be put aside for the statement on the item by the Member for Agriculture.

NO ARMISTICE YET, KOREA TROOPS TOLD

Confusion after news of cease-fire line

REPORTS that an unofficial cease-fire line had been agreed between the Korean Government and the United Nations Command, and that the troops heard of the agreement at Panmunjom on a cease-fire line brought a new directive from General James Van Fleet's Eighth Army headquarters yesterday.

Unofficially, it was said that the UN troops had been told that the UN Command had accepted the offer of an armistice.

'No mention'

Major General H. B. Mayall, Chief of Staff of the 24th Division, said there was no mention of an armistice in any of the reports received at the division.

'Only guarantee'

Major J. W. Chivers, Director of Staff, said that the only guarantee that the UN Command gave was that there would be no more fighting.

'STARS' CONVICTEMENT
The Meru people have been told that they should accept the Government's offer of an armistice.

ASIAN CIVIL SERVANTS REGISTER PROTESTS

Appeal to Secretary of State

FOLLOWING closely in the footsteps of their European counterparts, the Asian Civil Servants' Association held an ordinary general meeting on Wednesday night to register protest against the terms of the proposed new regulations to implement the Whitley Council.

The meeting was held at the offices of the Asian Civil Servants' Association Executive, and was attended by representatives of the African and European Civil Servants' Associations' members of the African Association met last night in Nairobi on similar business.

With separate resolutions on working hours, conditions of service, and other matters, the meeting passed a series of resolutions protesting that as a result of the proposed regulations, Government employees will have to work longer hours for less pay.

Inadequate pay

But the most serious objection to the proposed regulations was the inadequate pay. The meeting passed a resolution protesting that the proposed regulations would result in a 10 per cent reduction in pay.

Consultative

Mr. P. N. P. also said that the meeting had agreed to write to the Secretary of State asking that the proposed regulations be subject to a consultative process.

UNITED NATIONS AID FOR COLONIES

The attitude of United Nations representatives to development in non-self-governing territories, with particular reference to the raising of living standards in India, is reported, now available from Geneva, of the special committee on India.

Emphasis is laid on the need for broadening the basis of production in these territories, and of increasingly associating the inhabitants themselves with projects undertaken for their benefit.

Recalling the stated aim of the committee to assist the "diversified" activities on a part-time basis, the committee consequently developed on a few points the territories which are available to him has been proved sufficient to start a construction or economic development, except where a territory was already advanced on the road to economic advance.

It might also be desirable to have the most successful development programmes in those areas where rapid industrialization might be anticipated. Special attention should be given to the territories which are situated towards the equator, in order to strengthen the basis of the economy of the territories in view of the understanding of their economic development.

Export products

It is advised that expansion of established exports should not be neglected, and that new export products, expansion of existing exports, and better local for local consumption, are all important factors in the expansion of trading opportunities.

The special committee is convinced that a lack of essential raw materials resulting from an undue reliance on a few basic exports will be counterbalanced by diversification, which will not only result in a more balanced agriculture but will also produce resources of value for stabilizing economies.

It is noted that the present focus however, should be on the territories which have been pursued with sufficient vigour to have attained a stage where they have been able to extend beyond to meet their own needs, but where the need to diversify is still acute, and where the need to diversify is still acute, and where the need to diversify is still acute.

It is suggested that the expansion has been established, but it is suggested that the expansion has been established, but it is suggested that the expansion has been established.

Mining activities

Concerned almost entirely with Scottish affairs

The Loch Ness Monster is in the news again. It is "two" feet long, and is "two" feet long, and is "two" feet long, and is "two" feet long, and is "two" feet long.

Smiles all round

Captain Crossbark may have been the last of his kind, but he is not the last of his kind, but he is not the last of his kind, but he is not the last of his kind.

Publicly minded

In all fairness to the Scots, it should be noted that this is the month of the year when the North of Scotland would have been the most fertile ground for the monster.

Wordy dispute

Not that Scotland was getting tired of her own words, but there was a wordy dispute between the Scottish Labour Party and the Scottish Labour Party.

NEW TECHNIQUES IN WORLD POSTAL SERVICES

JOHN RIGG describes the latest developments of the international postal services, in this article on his new Post Office techniques.

NO service is more truly international than that of the Post Office. Not only do its activities span the whole world, but there is a free interchange of information on new techniques and developments between the postal authorities of many countries, and a discovery made in London or Paris today may tomorrow mean speedier postal facilities in countries in other parts of the world.

Main postal authorities have their own research departments whose members are well-versed in the equipment and technique used in the day-to-day operations of the post office and in radio, cable, telegraph and telephone communications. This maintained by the United Kingdom Post Office at Dollis Hill, London, has been made possible by generous contributions to the service.

Show its foundation at Dollis Hill... In deep water... Most recent of its developments has been the design of new working telephones...

The United Kingdom Post Office has been in the forefront of development in the field of automated registers and a number of registers of an electronic "beeper" which supplies cable signals have been developed... This is but one of the many modern methods, including the radio-frequency telephony system...

'Talking clocks'

Much other work of international value has taken place recently... A prototype model of the device for the Australian Government has been submitted there recently. This clock incorporates what is known as a radio-controlled oscillator...

The world time system in Britain... Royal and the Post Office has been established to this effect...

The increasing use of short-wave radio for telephone and telegraph services... The Post Office's research team have concentrated a main effort on a short-wave service between London and Africa...

INDIAN FARMING SCHOOL

A preliminary report developed at the research station of the United Kingdom Post Office at Dollis Hill, London. First recordings are usually made on a film sound-track and then copied on to glass discs. Here is an enlarged image of the newly photographed sound-tracks, thrown on to a plate by visual inspection.

Control of beetles by insecticides

EXPERIMENTS were conducted by the Department of Agriculture at Dollis Hill, London, in 1951 with various and insecticides applied as seed dressings... Certain of these treatments proved to have a high mortality of adult beetles, and a marked increase in the number of plants produced.

Records of signals to assist in the radio-navigation of aircraft are made at the research station of the United Kingdom Post Office at Dollis Hill, London.

CRAFTSMEN CREATE A SYMBOL OF FREEDOM

By Phyllis Davies

FROM time to time when revolutionary changes have taken place in a nation's constitution, old symbols of its former power and dignity have been swept away. New regiments, in successfully abolishing the old and historic emblems of the powers they have overturned, have invariably created for themselves new regalia to mark their might and authority. It is significant, therefore, in a world which has thus far seen few such destructions of ancient States and the emblems of their people, to witness a work which has seen the birth of a new symbol of freedom.

Photo: Wartles.

The new symbol, a work of art in itself, was created by a group of craftsmen who have spent months of labor in its creation. The work is a masterpiece of sculpture, and its creation has been a labor of love for the craftsmen who have spent months of labor in its creation.

When I first came to Ireland, I was struck by the beauty of the landscape. The rolling hills, the green fields, and the white cottages with their red roofs. It was a scene that I had never seen before. I had heard that Ireland was a beautiful country, but I had never seen it. Now I know why.

The people of Ireland are a warm and friendly people. They are proud of their country and their traditions. They love to talk about their history and their customs. It is a pleasure to meet them and to learn about their way of life.

Ireland is a beautiful country with a rich history and a warm people. It is a place that I will always cherish. I hope that many others will come to visit it and to experience its beauty and its hospitality.

THE CULT OF SHERLOCK HOLMES

THE creator of Sherlock Holmes was never alive to deal in the world of the cult. He would be reflecting ruefully, and no doubt with a touch of exasperation, on the Hourglass state of the Holmes cult. For it is common knowledge that Conan Doyle was tired of his Holmes, grudging him the popularity he enjoyed and could never understand why he had such a hold on the public imagination.

Watson were able to deal in the world of the cult. He would be reflecting ruefully, and no doubt with a touch of exasperation, on the Hourglass state of the Holmes cult. Begged for more of literature that Holmes and Watson were able to deal in the world of the cult. He would be reflecting ruefully, and no doubt with a touch of exasperation, on the Hourglass state of the Holmes cult. A MUSEUM OF SCIENCE AND INDUSTRY ... AND FUN

The need worked for the first time when in the summer of 1914 a Holmes short story...

Inside one of the most unusual museums in the United States, learning is fun and visitors see how science works by operating some of the mechanical exhibits.

THERE is a museum in the Mid-Western Illinois city of Chicago, Illinois, where a visitor not only may look at the exhibits but also touch them. More than that, he is invited to operate them.

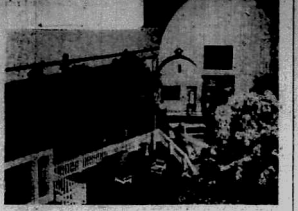

It is on "a" flight trainer, made by a U.S. Navy, where a user foundry and a printing plant operator or poor fellow's shoulder as he extracts coal from a realistic train—just under one.

The casual visitor approaching this museum with its severe classic facade would surely think that behind these limestone walls there would be little more than a museum with hushed visitors respectfully eyeing the exhibits. He would be wrong, for a wander aimlessly down the marble corridors.

However, inside the building there is a world of fun for all educational exhibits. Here are some and here are some that are not. It was not always this way. The museum had at its beginning a many another. But in time it found itself a museum of science and industry. It was not until 1920 that it was reorganized as the present one.

The aim

It is to this proposition that the museum is dedicated that applied science and industry progress, that the unwavering processes and basic truths in science can be made

Inside this "farm" are all the mechanical work when given a try.

technology can be demonstrated and put to work for all to understand. This visitor can trace behind the eyes the long continuing process of scientific and industrial progress, that the unwavering processes and basic truths in science can be made easier to comprehend, and enjoy the museum as a giant source of fun for all the world to see.

In a sense the museum is an extension of the University of Chicago. American inventive genius and industry in Chicago trace to direct sight and comprehension something of the power and force that when harnessed can make a better nation great. U.S.S.

'Step up and try'

A CHANGE was forewarned from the moment that Major Louis Letts indicated for his best friend's direction of the Chicago World's Fair 1933-34. Letts, then president of the museum in 1930, had given him some definite plans.
