Cathedral scene for carols

All Saints' Cathedral, Nairobi, was the venue on Tuesday evening for a special Christmas programme of carol singing.

Singers perched on the Cathedral roof and in the grounds for the benefit of the hundreds of people who made up the audience.

Bottom, a group of young carol singers struck the right note as they are illuminated by floodlights.

During the singing church members presented religious lanterns on the parapet and church roof.

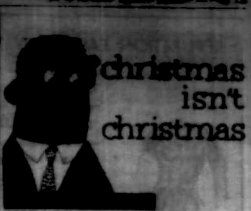

Highlight of Nairobi area annual police ball was a colourful two-hour show "Driving up the Wrong Creek". The picture shows a scene from the show. The cast of about 30 included the attractive "Les Coppern" and Hank and the Equator Club band. The show was produced and directed by Robert Beaumont.

PROBLEMS OF THE OTHER CHRISTMAS

MY LIST

I BELIEVE it is an accepted fact that the Government normally would find it necessary to step in to regulate the Christmas trade and create a demonstrable standard of living possible. I am one of the thousands who have been prevented from doing this because of the Government's policy.

non-racial school

FACTORS IN KENYA DEMAND: BUY FROM US

COMPLAINT ABOUT NEW SITE 'RIDICULOUS'

THE Hospital Hill model primary school was described by Mr. T. J. Mbatia (Nairobi Area) in Kenya Legislative Council last night as "the most significant single experiment that has come out of Kenya."

Mr. Mbatia raised the subject at the meeting of members of the Government's office for the promotion of non-racial education for a permanent home.

He said the school was not readily acceptable except to parents with cars and thus would pose difficulties for parents of African pupils. He complained, too, that the site of ten acres was "hoax" but, in a growing urban area and would allow very little room for future expansion.

"MOST SIGNIFICANT EXPERIMENT"

Kenya manufacturers are beginning to wonder how far the Government is prepared to support them, especially at a time when manufacturers are threatened by the credit squeeze, and the Government should be financing its own reconstruction programme inside its own borders.

In the past two years, questions have been asked in Legislative Council on behalf of manufacturers who request a Government contract to buy their goods.

The main reason for the popularity of a roof

All best, the good roof should lead to a substantial saving. Because such a roof is waterproof, it will not require many coats and there is always the possibility of a leak in the guttering and downpipes. The roof will last for years, being removed easily and fitted to other buildings as required.

Can crop changed the face of Uganda

Uganda is hardly in vogue after Egypt, the United Arab Emirates and the "big six" cotton-producing countries of the world. About one-tenth of the supply of raw cotton in the world is produced in Uganda, writes a special correspondent.

Uganda is a small country in the East African region, with a population of about 10 million. It is a land of great beauty and potential, with a rich cultural heritage and a diverse economy.

A SNOW scene, pictured on the right, adds up to a White Christmas— with a difference. It is the kind of scene in the Banking zone for miles later into the hills and valleys are under a white blanket of 24th Street snow.

Charles Dickens

I have always thought of Christmas time, when it has come round, as a good time, a kind, forgiving, charitable, pleasant time; the only time I know of in the long calendar of the year when men and women seem by one consent to open their shut-up hearts freely, and to think of people below them as if they really were fellow-sufferers in the same old and new agony.

K. A. airlift: Troops ready for Buganda threat

JINJA BN. REINFORCED AS PRECAUTIONARY MEASURE - OFFICIAL

Standard Staff Reporter
FIVE hundred and sixty men of 5 Bn. King's African Rifles were flown to Jinja without incident yesterday to reinforce 4 Uganda BN, which is stationed in the town.

The airlift proved how quickly troops can be moved to potential trouble spots in East Africa and was completed in 45 minutes by five C-47 transport aircraft of the K.A.F. from Eastleigh.

The move has been made as a precautionary measure against possible disturbances in Buganda as a result of the threat to accede from Uganda on January 1.

MAIDEN FLIGHT FOR MANY

The five-year-old flight of regular intervals from Nakuru airstrip between 8 and 11.5 a.m. Each carried about 15 men and the flight to Jinja in 40 hours. The last flight was made on Tuesday.

On arrival at Jinja each plane-landed was formed up and marched to by K. A. R. barracks on a hillside overlooking the airport.

There was no sudden lull back from the mainly African troops which watched the planes arrive. Many troops landing had not flown before and were obviously excited at the prospect. They took a keen interest in such landings and were keen to see the planes.

Over 500 Falls para, which their officers pointed out to them, were seen at the airport.

There was an air show at the airport and a number of C-47s were seen in the air. A number of K. A. R. were seen in the air. A number of K. A. R. were seen in the air.

'East African Brewers' Association

ANNOUNCEMENT

In the past the price of locally brewed beers has varied considerably in different parts of Kenya. The up-country beer drinker has had to pay a good deal more than the Nairobi consumer.

Breweries represented by this Association have now agreed that, as from January 1, 1960, the wholesale prices of their beers will be standardized throughout Kenya.

These standardized average prices will be a very small increase in beer prices in Nairobi and Mombasa and considerable decreases in some other areas throughout the rest of Kenya.

This change has been made in the interests of most of Kenya's beer drinkers.

OVER 50 SUBJECT ALL-RACE COLLEGE

Committee to hear both sides

More than 50 objections have been received by the United States Committee on Africa, Inc., which is preparing a non-racial educational centre on the site of the former University of the West Indies at St. Augustine, Jamaica. The project was revived last month when it was stated that anyone who owned land near the site and who had not been notified should do so within 14 days.

Striking union told 'talks are still on'

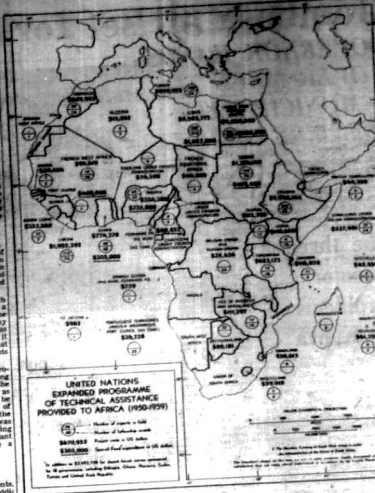

To counter an impression that the East African Ports and Telecommunications Union had broken up, the union's executive committee has announced that it is still in existence and is in the process of negotiating with the Government.

Lease of flats

It was then recommended to the committee that the development plan should be subject to objections from the public. K. Khatib, and local government officials. Mombasa had been a prosperous town since the seventeenth century. WEEK-END STANDARD SHIPS AND PLANES TO JOIN IN SEARCH FOR SECRETS OF ANTARCTIC

The Falkland Islands Dependencies Survey maintains a number of permanent scientific stations within the Falkland Islands Dependencies sector of the Antarctic. Many of these have been in continuous operation since 1944.

During the International Geophysical Year they played their part with the stations of other nations in the general co-ordinated plan.

At the end of 1958 the Royal Society station at Halley Bay was handed over to the Survey and will continue to work like that of the other stations of the Falkland Islands Dependencies Survey, into the indefinite future.

The main geographical stations are at the Argentine Islands and Halley Bay, the latter being separated by about 1200 miles.

As the latter appears to be a permanent station, the Falkland Islands Dependencies Survey will continue to maintain the station meteorological and the surface oceanographic work which it controls. It has been agreed that the Falkland Islands Dependencies Survey will be used for the study of the Antarctic continent and the Falkland Islands and both meteorological and oceanographic observations will be made at the station.

The Falkland Islands Dependencies Survey will continue to operate, as will the meteorological station which forms a part of the programme established at the Falkland Islands Dependencies Survey.

All major ships and meteorological stations will be in use last year and will be through 1959.

On the other hand, it has been decided to abandon the meteorological station at the Argentine Islands, which was established in 1944.

The other bases extend from South Georgia, where there is a purely meteorological station, through the South Orkney to the coast of Graham Land to about lat. 54 degrees S.

All are manned throughout the year, the number of men varying between five and 18. During the summer work is carried out from the ships operating in the area.

Blackletter will be extending hydrographic surveys along the west coast of Graham Land from around the South Orkney Islands.

In addition, she has been fitted to tow a proton resonance magnetometer so that relief and re-surveying the base, but it is hoped to operate a wave-recorder on board to investigate the damping effect of pack ice.

This is not only of academic interest, but will also be valuable when forecasting the break-up of the ice.

All bases maintain constant sea ice observations which are really people's background information which means that up-to-date charts can be built up.

If the protective effect of large areas of drifting pack ice be somewhat less towards the shipping will be materially assisted.

MODELS TO PRESENT DESIGNS GIVING THE BEST VALUE IN WORLD

By LESLEY CLAY

The second British Fashion Festival to be held in Kenya starts tomorrow and will continue through next week. The eight British models, who have already shown the collection in South and Central Africa, will give two shows daily from Monday, after starting off their programme with a gala parade and dinner on the first day.

All the parades will take place in the dining-rooms of the New Stanley Hotel, Nairobi. The gala dinner will be at 9 p.m. tomorrow; subsequent showings will be at 5 p.m.—last show—on Sunday and after dinner at 9.30 p.m.

The object of the Festival is to prove that whatever the price range, British fashion is the best value in the world. Spectators will be able to see a complete range of clothes, from beachwear and lingerie through day, afternoon, cocktail and evening gowns to fur.

THIS three-page supplement is published to mark the arrival in Nairobi of the British Fashion Festival team of models, who will be showing a complete range of the latest clothes at a series of parties in the city.

LATEST TRENDS

Six leading Nairobi fashion houses will also take part in the parade, their special turns coming on Wednesday when they will show the best of their stocks and many other models straight from the 1960 collections. Many of the gowns arrived in Nairobi only a few days before the start of the Festival.

The models—Tania Hallett, Rosemary Wain, Kim, Elizabeth Lynch, Mary Rickard, Daphne Abrams, Pamela Brown, Nina Allen and Colleen—will be represented with their own dresses, with those, reacting from inexpensive seckill dresses to a diff replica of a ballgown designed 100 years ago for the Empress Eugenie.

Frederic Worth, 160 years ago, is in the style of the present Empire. and will have worn a dress which might have been worn by the Empress Eugenie.

The models will also show other gowns, reacting from the beach to the ballgown, and will show the best of their stocks and many other models straight from the 1960 collections.

WIDE RANGE

On the other hand they will be made aware of the wide range in price, design and fabric, regularly as those who they consider best suited to Kenya.

In South Africa and Rhodesia, the collections and the models who showed them were given an enthusiastic reception.

BUSY SCHEDULE

AFTER the eight fashion models completed their itinerary at the coast they remained at Malindi for a short, well-deserved holiday.

Refreshed by their few days holiday, which they spent surfing, water skiing and swimming, the models will make their first appearance in Nairobi tomorrow.

It will take the form of a gala dinner at 9 p.m. in the dining room of the New Stanley Hotel, with the show starting at 10.30 p.m.

On Monday there will be a tea show at 5 a.m. and an afternoon show at 9.30 p.m.

On Wednesday, January 6, the Malindi fashion house come into the picture to provide a tea show at five o'clock and an after-dinner parade at 9.30 p.m.

The final parade of the British Fashion Festival is on Thursday, January 7, and Friday, January 8, at tea-time and after dinner on both days.

All parades will be held in the New Stanley Hotel dining room.

DRESSER TEAM

Other participants are Designer Percy Taylor-Rose, showing stockings and lingerie, and Mary Richards.

For the second time at the Fashion Festival, Mrs. Robert Barber of Nairobi is acting as wardrobe mistress, with the aid of local "dressers" to help her.

The Sally Vidali hair salon will be responsible for the hair styles.

A golden opportunity for Nairobi couturiers

A golden opportunity for Nairobi fashion houses to show East African women their entire range of dresses on January 6, when six leading dress shops give two mannequin parades. The first will be at 5 p.m. and the other at 9.30 p.m. as an after-dinner show.

Of these six, some will be showing clothes from the 1960 London collections which have not as yet been shown in Nairobi. These were first shown at the Fashion Festival. Eight model girls are taking part in the festival and each of the houses has been allocated a model.

LINEN SUIT

straight-skirt linen, purple and fuchsia patterned cotton with high waist, low back and sheer skirt, and a flower pattern on grey, with black contrast.

JUST ARRIVED

Pamela Howe will model Jeanette's gowns. They arrived only just in time for the parade, but they would probably have been in the wardrobe of a busy Nairobi couturier.

The main theme of Jeanette's showing will be a breath-taking variety in new little matching boleros, lined in red, green, blue, and white.

Three more Susan Small dresses are likely to be featured. The first is a long, belted, floor-length gown in a light color with a dark, patterned skirt. The second is a shorter, belted, floor-length gown in a light color with a dark, patterned skirt. The third is a shorter, belted, floor-length gown in a light color with a dark, patterned skirt.

LESSONS OF FREE TRADE AND REDUCED TAXATION

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR PETITION SIGNED BY MORE THAN 650

MR. W. RODGERSON'S claim that the Lancashire cotton industry was founded upon protection is wrong. It was the application of steam power to the various manufacturing processes which gave the impetus not only to the cotton industry but to the whole of the Empire.

The fact that Gladstone abolished the tariff on iron in 1845 and that Gladstone's Free Trade policy also gave the impetus to the cotton industry but the provision of cheaper transport by the construction of the railways of the Empire.

Both the Dreyfus Act of 1920 and the Tariff Act of 1925 have done much to encourage the cotton industry in the Empire. It is to be hoped that the Government will continue to do so.

The lowering of tariffs, the simplification of a tariff schedule, the reduction of the duties on raw materials, the simplification of the duties on finished goods and the simplification of the duties on machinery should be done.

It is to be hoped that the Government will continue to do so. The lowering of tariffs, the simplification of a tariff schedule, the reduction of the duties on raw materials, the simplification of the duties on finished goods and the simplification of the duties on machinery should be done.

Chivalry exactly as taught

I AM pleased in some of the letters which are currently being published in the matter of what is known as the 'K.N.U.T. case'.

Before I started writing a column on the subject of the 'K.N.U.T. case' I was not aware of the fact that it was a subject which would interest so many of our readers.

The fact that it was a subject which would interest so many of our readers is a tribute to the chivalry which is being taught in our schools and universities.

KARIOBANGI HOMES READY IN MARCH

Estate has room for 1,500 people

NAIROBI County Council's new housing estate at Kariobangi, on the outskirts of the city, is expected to be ready for occupation in March.

These pictures show a general view of the estate site and phases in the construction of the houses on which work for an African force began four and a half months ago.

Completed entries in November. The 12 blocks are spread out over 12 acres and will accommodate 1,500 people.

All ready as 1,500 could however be housed in the 78 blocks.

These are of four distinct designs and suit for bachelor, family quarters, with or without lockers. Roads are laid out and parking spaces have been left for gardens and lawns.

Interest shown

Electricity is being installed and a complete water supply provided.

Enquiries have already been received from a number of interested persons for accommodation on the new estate which will be expanded to include more housing units.

It is intended generally to serve the needs of the workers in the area, workers from Ruaka and the Government also for people in the city when the Transport Bill Road has been laid.

Government to review affiliation law MANY DIFFICULTIES FOUND IN OPERATION

The Kenya Government agreed to the Independent Council to review the Affiliation Ordinance which is relating to Africans, as it is expected that a number of difficulties will arise in operating it.

The bill, which was originally prepared by Mr. T. Towett (Southern Area) and amended by Mr. J. M. Johnston, was accepted in principle by the Government on 10th October. It suggests that amendments be made to the Ordinance in the light of the proposed review to ensure that the courts pay due regard to the views of the African community and custom, while making adequate provision for the needs of women and handicapped children.

In the customary ceremony of the Government, Mr. Johnston, Minister for Home Affairs, said he was glad to see the bill introduced into the House of Representatives. A concrete solution to slab puzzle

President in Brooklands Drive, Nairobi, have been started by the appearance of several concrete slabs spaced out at regular intervals, in the high-traffic road.

During the past few years because heavy motor vehicles still use roads which were built for light traffic, the roadways were damaged to crystals and a hazard to motorists.

The damage has been so bad in the high-traffic road that the Government has decided to start a programme to reconstruct the roadways with concrete slabs.

Judicial Committee on circuit
Whether a reorganisation of the courts could be carried out in the East African territories, and what steps should be taken to bring about the reorganisation of the courts in the East African territories, was the subject of a report by the Judicial Committee on circuit.

There are many reasons why a reorganisation of the courts in the East African territories is necessary. The present system is inefficient and costly. A reorganisation would save money and improve the administration of justice.

WEEK-END STANDARD BABY WILL BE FIRST BORN TO A REIGNING QUEEN FOR 100 YEARS

ROY JONES today begins a series of articles on the Queen's baby—the first this month or early in February. A Fleet Street correspondent, Mr. Jones thinks it is possible to write about the Queen's baby, and then speculate on the child and the chances of a boy or a girl.

BROADS will surge outside Buckingham Palace one day soon to catch a glimpse of a bare official to be born to a reigning British Sovereign for 100 years is a boy or girl. How, if at all, will this new change the line of succession to the Throne?

If the Queen's baby is a boy, he will be named in his title to the Throne, after the 11-year-old Prince of Wales. If a girl, she will rank after Princess Anne, aged nine, as third in succession—a place now held by Princess Margaret, who is 13, back to fourth place.

After her will come the Duke of Gloucester (the Queen's uncle), who is 58. In the Queen's cousin, Prince William of Gloucester, aged 18, Prince Richard of Gloucester, aged 15, the Duke of Kent, aged 12, and Prince Alexander of Kent, who was 23 on Christmas Day last, are a royal "Top Twenty" and a baby daughter born last June by the Duke and Duchess of Fife, and King Olav of Norway, who is a grandson of King Edward VII.

They or girls, the baby will be likely styled "the Queen's baby."

NEW TITLES
Seven years ago the Queen declared to Parliament that she and her children should be styled and known as the House of Windsor, after the Duke and Duchess of York, who were married in 1893.

It has been suggested that the child also give a Cornish title. And since the Duke is the senior Commanche, the child would become "Duke of Cornwall."

IF A GIRL...
The position will be vastly different if the baby is a girl. As Princess Anne, she will be the next daughter in line to the throne. The Princess Royal, who is 14, is fifth in line of succession.

So any sister she may have would stand by her.

These titles, boy or girl, the whole situation will change if Prince Charles survives and has children. In that event, the right of succession would pass to his descendants.

INVOLVED PATH
This can be illustrated by the accident, which is what the present Queen calls the Duke of Windsor's title.

In 1922 the Prince of Wales, then, the Duke of Clarence, died unmarried at the age of 34. He was succeeded by his brother, the Duke of York, who inherited the title of Prince of Wales.

The Prince of Wales was married in 1923 to the then Princess Alice. In 1926 the Duke of York left Britain to go to the United States.

When a boy or a girl, the third Royal child will mix more freely with the people than his brothers. An example of this new policy was when Princess Anne joined the Browns at the Queen's garden party in the garden of Buckingham Palace.

THE QUEEN AND HER FAMILY AT WINDSOR.

Victorian or Jacobite names suggested

Should she give a Victorian name to her child, the present Queen's grandfather, King George VI died in 1952, he was named after the Duke of York, the Queen's uncle, who was 23 on Christmas Day last. It has been suggested that the child also give a Cornish title. And since the Duke is the senior Commanche, the child would become "Duke of Cornwall."

They or girls, the baby will be likely styled "the Queen's baby."

Seven years ago the Queen declared to Parliament that she and her children should be styled and known as the House of Windsor, after the Duke and Duchess of York, who were married in 1893.

It has been suggested that the child also give a Cornish title. And since the Duke is the senior Commanche, the child would become "Duke of Cornwall."

NEXT IN LINE

Constitutionally, the succession goes to the first-born son—a custom called primogeniture. Should the eldest son die, then the next oldest succeeds him. Only when there is no son can a daughter succeed to the throne.

As part from Queen Victoria, whose nine children were all boys after she became Queen, there has been only one Queen regnant in British history. She was Mary, Queen of Scots, who died in 1587.

The Duke of York, who is 11, is in fact the only heir to the throne in the present Queen's family. He is the first son of the Duke of York, who is 11.

to the Antarctic

by MICHAEL TURNER

SIR VIVIAN FITZPATRICK led the British Trans-Antarctic Expedition five years ago and had spent 18 months in the high Antarctic in that time. He is now leading a party of 11 to the continent for the first time.

He will try to visit most of the continent, and will be the first to reach the South Pole since 1956. He is expected to return in the late autumn.

YOUNG VETERAN

The new king, though the monarch, will be a young man. He is expected to be in his late 20s or early 30s. He will be the first monarch to be born in the 20th century.

PAUPER WORK

It has been suggested that the child also give a Cornish title. And since the Duke is the senior Commanche, the child would become "Duke of Cornwall."

A mother and a servant, knitted by Mrs. Mary Pennington, aged 77—see our home in Glastonbury, Dorset—has been occupied by the Queen for the last time.

She is here taking part at a meeting in the garden of Buckingham Palace.

And if, by some strange chance, the reporter was to lose the Premier it would be quite likely that he would turn in a piece about the obscure episode of the decorations in the hall where the nation's leader was dropping his pearls of wisdom.

A state of baffled impotence; the fifth article will be pure nonsense. This is where The British Guardian comes in. In this annual collection of extracts from the newspaper, you can find out what the fifth article...

The eighth section will well up to the standard of its predecessors, except perhaps in the sports section where the well-known 'cricket' is criticised in a highly humorous way.

Lebanon low-down
The last article in this book is an article by James Morris, headed "Lebanon: A Low-down".

Personally I will go by no other source than the Guardian if I had £1,000 plus in the bank and I was looking for a holiday. The Guardian is the only newspaper that I would read in the Middle East.

It is a book that is well written, and it is a book that is well written. It is a book that is well written, and it is a book that is well written.

Hunt for 'extinct' animals

IT is not worth going round the world to count the cats in Zanzibar. This quotation, attributed to Thoreau, comes from the first chapter of The Wild As You, by Michael...

THE CHARM OF COUNTING CATS

IT gets under your skin, he states, as he has spent the best part of 40 years travelling uncounted thousands of miles to see and do things which Thoreau—and many like-minded people—might think is idiotic as counting cats.

However, the animals to which this highly personal book is dedicated are not cats. It is devoted to some of the wilder and more remote corners of the world. They were the blue goal of the survey, which was undertaken by the author and his wife, and which was not without its adventures.

SAFARI TO KENYA'S FINEST GAME RESERVE

The Chairman of the Kenya Game Commission visited by a recent article in this newspaper that the Mara Area of Masailand was unquestionably the most important game area in Kenya. Here a safari to the area is described by BARBARA MACKINTOSH.

The pros and cons of an 'open' Wimbledon

By HENRY WELSH

At open Wimbledon last March dismissed and graciously invited for the world tennis championship has not been accepted as suitable and, it is feared, inevitable.

Last summer, a special sub-committee of the International Lawn Tennis Federation was charged with investigating the pros and cons of "open" tournaments. Its recommendations were to the effect that the Wimbledon players of the requisite

The reason behind this recommendation is simple and in the line and perhaps an obvious fact that all the Wimbledon players in the world are now playing on level terms. The reason is simple to the extent that it is a fact that the Wimbledon which now goes forward is a tournament which is open to all players of the requisite standard. The Wimbledon players who are now playing on level terms are the Wimbledon players who are now playing on level terms. John Thomas (right), who at 19 is Britain's fastest open-court player, has been invited to Wimbledon for the first time since 1954. He is seen here in action during a recent match.

SOLUTION NEEDED

In the future, there both the Wimbledon players and Mr. Kramer must be satisfied with the Wimbledon players who are now playing on level terms. The Wimbledon players who are now playing on level terms are the Wimbledon players who are now playing on level terms.

CASH BEFORE GLORY

Kramer explains that his boys are now playing on level terms. The Wimbledon players who are now playing on level terms are the Wimbledon players who are now playing on level terms.
