DELIVERY HIGHER THAN EXPECTED

MAIZE exports from Kenya reached 170,000 tons in the first two weeks of the year, according to the Director of the Commonwealth Economic Commission, just published in a report.

Maize deliveries in 1962 have been well in excess of the 150,000 tons expected, according to the Director of the Commission, who said that the total for the first two weeks of the year was 170,000 tons, or 10 per cent above the target.

Exports to the United Kingdom were 100,000 tons, and to other countries 70,000 tons. The total for the first two weeks of the year was 170,000 tons, or 10 per cent above the target.

Not returned

It is anticipated that some of the maize from Uganda has been returned to that country, but figures for this trade have not yet been received.

The Commission also reported that the total for the first two weeks of the year was 170,000 tons, or 10 per cent above the target.

QUESTIONS AFTER A NIGHT IN THE PARK

Letters to the Editor

FURTHER to my letter and the answer signed by the Director of the Metropolitan National Parks, I wish to make it quite clear that Mr. Owen has obviously been misquoted.

All the time I go around the park, I see the signs which should be a complete stranger to me. I have not seen them in the park, but I have seen them in the park. I have seen them in the park, but I have not seen them in the park.

The Director has explained to me that the signs are not to be placed in the park, but I have seen them in the park. I have seen them in the park, but I have not seen them in the park.

Beggars

I MUST first of all apologise that my sympathy for the unfortunate individuals who are suffering in a time when their country is heading towards its long-awaited admission and independence, but I have seen them in the park, but I have not seen them in the park.

I have seen them in the park, but I have not seen them in the park. I have seen them in the park, but I have not seen them in the park.

SOME OF THE WORLD'S MINISTERS TO BE GUIDED BY E. J. NEEDS

Action against Britain on N.F.D. issue

The British Ambassador in Washington, Sir Laurence Pym, again warned British subjects to stay off the streets yesterday as the National Assembly in the capital continued to debate a Government sponsored motion calling for the severance of diplomatic relations with Britain.

The Ambassador told a reporter by telephone last night that all was quiet in Mogadishu and that police and troops were patrolling the streets in an obvious display of the Government's determination to bring a renewed outbreak of rioting.

The Somali Prime Minister, Dr. Sharmarke, had announced in Parliament this morning that the Government would break off diplomatic relations with Britain because of its policy on the Northern Frontier District in Kenya. The announcement was greeted with prolonged cheers. Members were still speaking late last night. Some 20 Deputies have asked to speak in the debate, which is expected to last two days.

'Country will suffer'

A Radio Somalia broadcast last night, mentioned in the Parliament, said that thousands of people had gathered outside the breaking-off of diplomatic relations in support of the Government's policy. Dr. Sharmarke said that although the ending of relations was a dramatic step, it would be taken only if it was economically just. The Government would be obliged to take such a step.

The Foreign Office on Saturday stated that the British Government would, at the appropriate time, be ready to consider the opportunity to express its views regarding what should happen concerning the N.F.D. when Kenya becomes independent.

SANDY

International idea rejected

Mr. Sandys last night rejected the idea of an international dispute over Somalia, saying it is part of the R.F.D. plan for the House of Commons but that the British Government is not to be bound by it. He said the British Government will have proceeded without the consent of Kenya and will have proceeded without the consent of Kenya.

Government

The Colonial Secretary was giving the Opposition a review of his constitutional position in Kenya. Mr. Sandys said he had discussed the R.F.D. proposal with the Prime Minister and added: "They fell very strongly against it. In the absence of a fully agreed Government which could speak with authority for the people of Kenya, it would not be right for the British Government to take an irreversible step."

Old people problem

Mr. Sandys replied that the formation of a separate region did not prejudice the final decision on the Northern Frontier District. He said that the Government was aware of the old people problem and would be taking steps to deal with it.

Police raid

Members of the Kenya Police raided a house in Nairobi yesterday, searching for arms and ammunition. The raid was conducted by the Kenya Police and the Kenya Mounted Police.

There's nothing odd about me!

It's not odd, I get to the office at 6:30 a.m. - sometimes a bit later - the same as you do. On Saturday afternoon I like to do a good mate. Saturday evening I like the wife in the cinema. On Sundays I go with the family to Mass. Yet I don't say "I'm odd" when they tell me I'm a Catholic. Because I'm Catholic, I'll tell you what. I'm not a Catholic. They think I believe all kinds of nonsense - the pope, to have my six fingers, people to change, and that the Pope can't get a woman wrong. But I'm not odd, I'm just like you and they're all alike.

THE CATHOLIC INQUIRY CENTRE has been set up because many of our non-Catholic friends want to know as better. We cannot give you the Faith. But we can give you facts about the Faith and remove misunderstandings. You may intend never to become a Catholic, but we can still help you. It is always worth while to learn something about a full course of lectures which will be sent to you FREE if you are further interested. At this Inquiry Centre is intended for non-Catholic Catholics are requested to apply.

THIS week's BEST P

More expensive - but effective

By STANDARD POOLS EXPERT in Britain. This week I am giving another example of my pen-and-ink idea for the triple chance pool, using a block plan once again, but this time I am illustrating a more expensive and naturally more effective system.

First of all I am reducing the number of bets from four to three as shown here—

EXAMPLE 1
A B C
D E F
G H I
J K L
M N O
P Q R
S T U
V W X
Y Z

When A and B are merged the first part of your entry is complete. The guarantee is for it to lose draw or win. At one of them is bound to be in the best overall line. And if two draws occur in the eight sections, covered by Example B you should have a maximum three together.

Maybe five
So if the conditions are fulfilled you are sure of at least four draws in a line and quite possibly a top scoring five. There is a guarantee of A and B when merged—

THE NATIONAL LEAGUE TO RAISE THE PAY AWARD

Pay award only 3/4 a month

The Kenya Government could not pay its staff, had no reserves and a wide deficit which was likely to become even wider, the Director of the Civil Service Administration, Sir Berkeley Nicholl, says in his annual published yesterday.

A private undertaking in the same position would be in liquidation. The Government could not meet a large increase in salaries either from revenue or by external aid.

In the budgets of the economy of most countries, it would be unlikely that such additional money, if any, could be raised by increased taxation.

These are weighty considerations, which no administrator who is called upon to make a decision, that what I have called the socially desirable minimum, which is the claim of the state side, is attainable at the present time.

The gap between present minimum salaries and the needs of the Government is so wide that it must follow the Government's policy of the lowest possible salary for the subordinate service.

On the "good employee" principle Sir Berkeley considered that the Government must have some other source of funds to meet the needs of the subordinate service. It was evident that somewhere a limit was reached which a payment to the worker became not only unattainable but also undesirable.

The only award that was made last year was an allowance of 70 per cent more than the previous year. This was a special award to members of the service who were in the service for 20 years or more.

TWO MAJOR PORTS ISSUED $30 PERSONAL TAX recommended

RECOMMENDING changes in Kenya's personal income taxation are contained in the report of the Finance Commission published yesterday.

A new system of personal tax with a sliding scale of income tax rates is normally envisaged. This would be applied to the two major ports, Mombasa and Kisumu, and would operate similarly to local authorities. The new system would be introduced in the financial year ending 1953-54.

It is estimated that the new system would result in a saving of £1,000,000 this year and a total of £2,000,000 over the next three years (Table in Page 4).

The report reveals that the Government has estimated that about 70,000 women are employed in the public sector. This figure includes women in the civil service, the police, the fire service, and the health services. It also includes women in the transport and communication services, and in the education and social services.

The report also indicates that the Government is planning to increase the number of women in the public sector. The Government is also providing training and development opportunities for women to help them advance in their careers.

In addition, the report highlights the importance of women's participation in the economy. It notes that women's employment contributes significantly to the national income and to the overall growth of the country. The Government is committed to ensuring that women have equal opportunities in the workplace.

The report also discusses the challenges that women face in the public sector. These include issues such as pay equity, work-life balance, and career progression. The Government is working to address these challenges by implementing policies that promote gender equality and support women's careers.

Overall, the report provides a comprehensive overview of the current situation for women in the public sector. It highlights the Government's commitment to supporting women's employment and to creating a more inclusive and equitable workplace. The report also identifies areas where further action is needed to ensure that women are fully represented in the public sector.

The report also includes a section on the economic situation in the country. It discusses the impact of inflation and interest rates on the economy and on the public sector. The Government is taking measures to manage these economic challenges and to ensure the stability of the public sector.

In conclusion, the report provides a detailed analysis of the public sector and the role of women within it. It offers valuable insights into the challenges and opportunities facing the public sector and the Government's plans to address these issues. The report is a key document for understanding the current state of the public sector and for informing future policy decisions.

We like to get to know our clients, not just as people but as individuals.

A ministerial waygoose

EVIDENTLY the Kenya Minister enjoyed his waygoose yesterday. They traveled by a special train to the Royal Albert National Park and dined to admire the Queen's Falls, which were the first to be seen in the country since it was drawn through the forest and over the mountain range. Like the members of any other to the seaside in Britain, they went for a swim in the sea. The Minister, who had spent a night in the wilds, was seen to be in good luck, which was a good omen for the country.

ENGLAND TO BE CALLED New Zealand in final

ENGLAND beat New Zealand by seven wickets on the first day to complete a 3-0 sweep in the final and Knight clinched victory thanks to his brilliant batting in the N.Z.C.'s hour. The champions of the West Indies played the 1st Test in a rain-affected match which stretched through the covers.

England had won the previous two Tests by an innings and 100 runs and the first Test was a close contest when the fourth day was needed to finish the match.
