DIRECTOR SEEKS LEAD FOR JUNGLE FILM
80 local Asians interviewed

A CHARACTER similar to Tarzan of the Apes, many famous over the years by Hollywood studios, may come to life in the jungles of Uganda and the Congo during the next two months.

By Nairobi this week, looking for such a character in an Indian Territory, Mr. A. L. Richards, who has given up hope of finding a suitable person in East Africa.

By June, this Hollywood film director will report to his studio on the results of his search for a location in Western Africa for his film which will be a sequel to the first film, "The Jungle Boy" which was shot in the Congo.

Mr. Richards, who is the director of the film, has been in East Africa for several weeks, interviewing 80 local Asians in the process of his search for a suitable person to play the part of Tarzan.

He is in the intention to go back to his studio in Hollywood to confer with his producers and to see if they are willing to finance the film.

THE BRITISH RACING STORY
Tappayers' Stud shows a profit

British studs lead the racecourses of the world. The foundation stock in all the principal countries is British and their breeders have continued to import to improve these studs and to export to other countries. In the world of racing, it has been estimated that only one country in five has a stud of its own. In the United Kingdom, the National Stud, which is owned and managed by the Government, is the largest and most important. It has a stock of 10,000 horses, and its breeding programme is the most advanced in the world. The National Stud is the source of the best racing stock in the world, and its breeding programme is the most advanced in the world. Nakuru farmers want a branch railway into the Kamasia Reserve

When a Government Minister has told them the whole question of retaining the number of retaining the number of tracks from the over-crowded Nakuru station under the Kamasia Reserve, farmers from Nakuru, Agrop, and other districts, organized by the N.K.F.U. in Nakuru, agreed to do so far as a strike from the Kamasia Reserve was concerned, it should be taken into consideration as a railway station.

The members of the N.K.F.U. in Nakuru, Agrop, and other districts, organized by the N.K.F.U. in Nakuru, agreed to do so far as a strike from the Kamasia Reserve was concerned, it should be taken into consideration as a railway station. WHAT HYPNOTISM CAN DO FOR US

His Job Is To PREVENT WAR

By Jack Greenslade

MAKE no mistake, hypnosis is a powerful and useful instrument in the hands of the President of the British Society of Medical Hypnotists. He has by his skill and his power of words been able to cure a number of cases of insanity.

NEAR the town of Marly, private genee preserver of the President of France, is located the Supreme Head-quarters, Allied Powers, Europe, who meet on issued a progress report of their organization.

Eventide Cottages

To the Editor, "E.A. Standard"
Sir:- The Eventide Cottages, operated by the Kenya Air Arm at Kabete, is urgently in need of complete renovation.
A number of elderly East African residents are presently accommodated in the cottages and conditions are that none and more aged people would be unable to care for themselves with the amenities provided for their comfort and security which the amenities provide for their health. The Government of Kenya has expressed interest in this project and I am sure that it will be of great benefit to the East African community.

I have had inquiries made and I am sure that your Eventide House is most comfortable and secure. It is a very pleasant place to live in. The Government of Kenya has expressed interest in this project and I am sure that it will be of great benefit to the East African community.

To complete the scheme three cottages are urgently required and these, together with furnishings, will cost £10,000. Through the generosity of two donors a sum of £5,000 have already been subscribed and I am sure that the balance required for the scheme will be forthcoming.

Yours faithfully,
TERENCE BIRWOOD,
Eventide Cottages,

Eventide Cottage Scheme appeals for £10,000

PHOTO pictures tell better than words, the story of comfort, security and happiness in old age that is represented by the Eventide Cottage Scheme, operated by the Salvation Army at Kabere. The scheme is urgently in need of contribution and today a appeal is launched for £10,000 for this purpose. It was almost 10 years ago in a small rented house of Meers Road, Nairobi, that the Salvation Army started their work for the aged, the infirm and the distressed and the destitute.

They were the days of depression and many families and individuals, passing through a period of temporary adversity, were helped in their old age by a new start in life.

PHOTO shows the family for instance, with father unemployed, wife and children starving, and all trying to find their way out of a new life a happy home, and a sense of security. That family passed out of the house, and did not what stories could be told of individuals men and women who passed through the hotel. Some back to their homes in countries to which they had longed, others to new fields in Africa or Britain. No, they did not make good, but the stories of those who did, justify to the full the practical sympathy which has been extended to them.

It is not to be assumed that all who are old are helpless and that all who are young are vigorous. There were those who were old and who supported themselves, and some who were young and who were helped by a few elderly people. FROM NORTH TO SOUTH IN NYANZA

1. In The Lands Of The Luo

GRANVILLE ROBERTS describes further journeys in the African lands of Nyanza Province in this new series of articles and tells of the immense strides made by peasant agriculture in recent years.

Markets in Nyanza are being modernized, with permanent buildings of stone and cement replacing the older ramshackle structures of general improvisation.

TRAVELLING in the Luo country, as it is known, is a task that is not without its difficulties. The roads are not paved, and the terrain is often hilly and rugged. The Luo people are known for their hospitality and their skills in agriculture.

Land of swamps
The land of swamps is a vast area of low-lying land, often flooded during the rainy season. The Luo people have developed various methods of agriculture in this area, including the use of raised beds and irrigation systems.

Grass strips
Grass strips are a common feature in the Luo country, used for fencing and soil conservation. They are made of grass and are planted in rows, often following the contours of the land.

Money, vision and interest
Money, vision and interest are key factors in the development of the Luo country. The Luo people are known for their hard work and their ability to adapt to changing circumstances.

African wants to quarry diomite

An application by an African, Hinga Moyo, to quarry diomite in the Ndoya area of Kiambu District Council to set up a special subcommittee to discuss the proposition with the Council's members, because of doubts of his ability to finance it, operations, quarrying diomite without a constitution.

The President of the Council, Mr. J. G. Matthews, said he had no objection to the application because they suspected that the diomite was not in the Ndoya area. In all probability, he said, the diomite was in the Ndoya area and falling to carry out the own interest of quarrying diomite enterprise within the district.

Concluding Moyo agreed that his application was suspicious and added that he had no objection to the application to carry out quarrying operations, but that such machinery was probably to be erected.

'SUGAR' RAY IS STILL CHAMPION

K.O.s Rocky Graziano in third round

'SUGAR' RAY ROBINSON, by knocking out Rocky Graziano, an ex-emption, in the third round, retained the world middleweight championship at the Chicago Stadium on Wednesday night.

In addition, Ray thrashed the people millions of boxing followers watched the fight by television.

When it was all over Robinson, who had fought like a fury for the major part of the fight, was hardly breathing above his opponent and those millions were told that Robinson had hurt his opponent.

Robinson was very early in the third round. "The knockout blow of the fight," said Robinson, "was my first punch. The champion had slipped down in his eagerness to think of the money."

The referee counted it and it was not a knock-out. "It is a greater fight," said Robinson, "than I believe that you have ever seen." "This is a tough job and I start my hand."

He came after him in the fourth round and in the fifth round he was generally expected to win the fight because of his superior boxing technique. He was expected to connect with the chin.

The challenger never regained what he supposed to have against the power before slipping to the canvas in the sixth round.

Ferocity

"I started and hit him on the chin," said Robinson, "in the fourth round. In the fifth round he was generally expected to win the fight because of his superior boxing technique. He was expected to connect with the chin."

AFRICAN CIVIL SERVICE

Consideration of status GOVERNOR REPLIES TO SPEECH BY ASSOCIATION PRESIDENT

THE Governor of Kenya, Sir Philip Mitchell, told a conference of the African Civil Service Association held in Nairobi on Sunday that he hoped to be asked to consider the Government would be obliged to terms which would give African civil servants the same status as European civil servants.

He was replying to a speech by the Association's President, Mr. John Ngunjiri, who had pleaded for wider scope for African civil servants.

"I can understand," he said, "the feeling which you have which regards the present status of African civil servants. I am sure that you will agree with me that it is probably necessary that we should deal with it as early as possible. I hope that we shall be able to do so soon."

He went on to say that the Government was at present being examined in the Department of Kenya. He said that the Government was at present being examined in the Department of Kenya. He said that the Government was at present being examined in the Department of Kenya.

AUSTRALIA'S 'BACK TO THE LAND' PROBLEM

Agriculture needs revitalising

More than 50 per cent of the population in Australia is employed in agriculture. It is the backbone of the country's economy and the source of its wealth. But the Government has neglected it for years. It is the task of the Government to revitalize the industry and to bring it back to its former glory.

APPLICATION AND USES OF THE HELICOPTER

CAPTAIN R. N. LIPROT, CBE, B.A.,
the writer of this article, was formerly Deputy Director of Research and Development
(Helicopters) in the Ministry of Supply.

It will be the stated opinion of the writer that the helicopter is one of the most important developments in both the commercial and military fields. Even though the types which are available are not numerous, in operations their value has been strikingly demonstrated in the Balkans, the only theatre for four years since it became available to operators. There is a growing appreciation everywhere of the value of this new transport and its uses in both the commercial and military fields.

Experimental unit

These developments were the result of an experimental unit which was formed in 1919 to study the possibilities of helicopter operations. The unit was formed in 1919 to study the possibilities of helicopter operations. The unit was formed in 1919 to study the possibilities of helicopter operations.

MEN OF THE TREES

How Forest Destroyers Became Tree-Planters

A boy I was trained to say my father in the act of propagating trees in the vicinity of woodland trees which could be planted with a minimum of space and with a minimum of labour. He had an almost uncanny knowledge of the soil and the climate of the area and he was able to give me the best of advice. I was there that day to see the first sapling to be planted.

Formerly an Assistant Conservator of Forests in Kenya, RICHARD ST. BARBE BAKER tells in this article how he founded the 'Men of the Trees' Society whose members are pledged to encourage the planting and protection of trees.

The writer, who is now promoting a campaign to recruit 100 students from 50 countries to study desert reclamation and bio-physics, is expected to visit Kenya in May.

On they came in a constant stream, carrying their tools and materials as if prepared for battle. I noticed that in the case of every man's name was a little black mark on his forehead, a sign that they came in peace and not in war.

Hill of Muguga

They assembled in a orderly ranks on the Hill of Muguga, a hill of volcanic origin, near the town of Muguga, Kenya. They were dressed in their best, and they were all smiling. They had a purpose, and they were determined to see it through.

Richard St. Barbe Baker

Without hesitation, one of the men stepped out from the others and faced me with a look of intense determination. He said, "I will give you my life for the trees, and you will give me the same." He was a young man, and he was full of life and energy. He was a man of action, and he was determined to see his idea through.

They were all smiling, and they were all looking at me. They were all men of action, and they were all determined to see their idea through. They were all men of the trees, and they were all men of the future.

A Problem

HERE was a problem I had to solve. I had to find a way to get the men to work together, and to get them to work for the trees. I had to find a way to get them to work for the future, and to work for the world.

They were all smiling, and they were all looking at me. They were all men of action, and they were all determined to see their idea through. They were all men of the trees, and they were all men of the future.

Good deeds

AFTER all, I noticed in the eyes of the men a certain spark of life. I noticed in their hearts a certain spark of hope. I noticed in their hands a certain spark of action. I noticed in their feet a certain spark of determination.

Reforestation in the Kilimanjaro district

Without hesitation, one of the men stepped out from the others and faced me with a look of intense determination. He said, "I will give you my life for the trees, and you will give me the same." He was a young man, and he was full of life and energy. He was a man of action, and he was determined to see his idea through.

They were all smiling, and they were all looking at me. They were all men of action, and they were all determined to see their idea through. They were all men of the trees, and they were all men of the future.

Too Dear to Smoke, They Are Taking To Snuff

Now that tobacco has become so dear to the British smoker, many people are taking to snuff. It is a natural reaction to the high price of tobacco, and it is a natural reaction to the high price of the future.
