PARADES MARK BIRTHDAY

Nairobi ceremonial in LONDON, THE QUEEN TAKES SALUTE OF HER GRACES

The Queen had trouble with her horse when she took the parade, reports the British Official Birthday page in London yesterday. The Queen, who is eighty, was in the parade and the horse misbehaved before her in the ceremony of Trooping the Colour, the horse misbehaved, wheeling away from its position and turning its back on the parade. An officer led the big chestnut— a London police horse called Winston—back to its place.

It was the first time since the days of the first Queen Elizabeth, four centuries ago, that the reigning Queen of England had ridden on horseback for a ceremonial occasion.

Sitting side-saddle and dressed in the scarlet tunic of Colonel-in-Chief of the Scots Guards—whose Colours were topped—the young Queen watched picked men of her Guard accompany her in the huge Horse Guards Parade.

The Queen rode in the medieval pageantry of the British Royalty. She rode round the ranks, and then to the saluting box with her uncle, the Duke of Gloucester, following.

Three soldiers in the middle of the parade ground fired a salute which continued to be handed over the Colours to an escort of Guardsmen who then marched in slow time to the ranks.

To the rear of military music to troop the ranks, which were then to be reviewed by the Queen. The Queen was in the parade ground in the middle of the parade ground in the middle of the parade ground in the middle of the parade ground.

COMMUNISTS MAKE TROUBLE

Communist workers start strikes

Communist workers started strikes yesterday, to stop work on the new industrial standards for the coal and iron industries.

The strikes are being called in protest against the new standards, which are believed to be a step towards the nationalization of the coal and iron industries.

The Communist Party has announced that it will support the strikers in their demands for higher wages and better working conditions.

The Communist Party has also announced that it will support the strikers in their demands for a shorter working week.

INDIA RECOVERS IN FIRST TEST

Three quick wickets—then a stand

AFTER losing three wickets with only 42 runs on the board, India staged a recovery in their first innings in the first Test of the present series with England which started at Headingley, Leeds, yesterday. Together at the lunch interval, captain Hazare and V. K. Menon set off down to take India out of an unhappy position during the afternoon's play.

Hazare had been lucky in the time when calling against England's new captain, Len Hutton, and had decided to bat on a pitch that was likely to give the batsman a little trouble.

He was out of the field in West Indies' first over but did not affect the batsmen's mood. He was out of the field in West Indies' second over but did not affect the batsmen's mood. He was out of the field in West Indies' third over but did not affect the batsmen's mood.

TEA-TIME SCORE

When the two teams went into the score shed at 10 minutes past the tea interval, the score stood: England, 100; India, 42. The wickets were: England, 100; India, 42. The wickets were: England, 100; India, 42.

ONE BOWLER SKITTLES OUT LANCASHIRE

LESLE JACKSON, the Derbyshire fast-medium bowler, skittled the best performance of his career on a day-paced pitch at Manchester on Wednesday when he captured nine Lancashire wickets for 60 runs in the first of the latest series of first-class cricket matches. His bowling was seven Lancashire wickets for 60 runs at Derby in 1949.

Learning their way around
By Joyce Betcher

When quite a small girl, I was often taken to a London restaurant, made to order the whole meal, graduating as time went on, from a light mid-day snack to a full course dinner which, in even later days, had to include the right wine.

TAKING FASHION BY STORM
By Dorothy Barkley

When the fashion designers of tomorrow make a collection of clothes, do they fall into the trap of imitating their elders, the established Big Names? Not a bit. They have ideas of their own.

Any one who has had this experience will find it no more than a fall course dinner which, in even later days, had to include the right wine.

NOBODY LOVES THE SPOILED CHILD

We all abhor the naughty, undisciplined child. Here in Kenya, says Nona Bonner, it is especially important to teach him how to behave.

SPARE the rod and spoil the child? Many parents who give their children very harsh and savour of Victorian severity, but interpreted in the spirit rather than the letter, I think there is a grain of truth in this old adage.

The Egotist
NONSENSE! The young child is a potential savage, nurtured and tamed. He will resist to any length, if he is not trained to take his place in a civilized society and above that he can't take his place in a civilized society.

Whom no one loves
THE spoilt child becomes a nuisance to everybody else. He is a potential savage, nurtured and tamed. He will resist to any length, if he is not trained to take his place in a civilized society.

Advice to the short and the tall
HERE is some good advice for the short. Choose vertical lines, straight-up and down, and avoid anything in drooped or spilt. It is in our hands to make ourselves taller than we are.

INSIDE GOVERNMENT HOUSE, NAIROBI

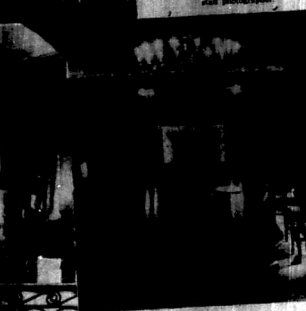

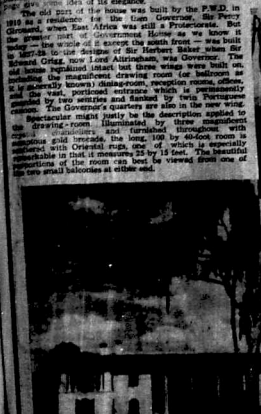

In the early days of Kenya, when European settlement was in its infancy, Government House and its grounds were familiar to many people in the Colony. It was the scene, and, in fact, the theatre, for everyone to sign the book.

With the rapid increase in population in the past few years, however, the place has fallen into disrepair and the grounds have become overgrown. The Government House and its grounds are now a place where many people have the opportunity of seeing inside what was once the most important building in the land.

For those to whom Government House is merely a name or a place of interest, the pictures on this page give a clear idea of its structure.

Completely refurbished and reconstructed in 1930, the Government House of Kenya, with its large central hall and its view towards the Government House, was the last building that the British Government in the East had to build in Kenya. The British Government in the East had to build in Kenya the Government House in Nairobi. The British Government in the East had to build in Kenya the Government House in Nairobi.

The beautiful floral arrangements throughout the house were personally supervised by Lady Marshall, daughter-in-law of the Governor. Travel Essay TO ROME By Philip Toyne

The lake traffic from Lanzarote to Minotrix had been had even though even the cautious driver had been tempted to a dash. But Sunday evening the horns to Milan was an unforgettable first impression of Italian high spirits.

After the frustration of a Rappallo, and a three-hour delay through the night, the road was fine and smooth. But the lumbering old car was a trial.

Fast and smooth The frustration of a Rappallo, and a three-hour delay through the night, the road was fine and smooth.

THE THINGS THEY SAY... including quotations from B.B.C. talks. 'I had to spend a good deal of time in the film reclining comfortably on a couch with two chestnuts on my lap.'

WONDERFUL MOTHERS 'To be fact, at the end of a love scene with Bob Taylor, one of my eyes, the eye I was engaged with only a torn dress.'

NO MORE COUGHS. Bristow's Calloway's Cough Syrup. Includes an illustration of a man coughing and a bottle of the syrup.

Stavinsky And The Nightingale. 'JOHN STAVINSKY, the composer, 70 years old yesterday, was to celebrate his birthday by attending the opening of the Holland Festival of the Arts.'

Vital exception. 'AFTER a week in Rome one was tempted simply to say that the Italians are the cleverest people in the world, in every field. In conversation they are, in fact, very intelligent, even in the most trivial matters.'

RELUCTANT FAREWELL. 'Someone asked me the other day what I should have done to leave in this country, I said, without hesitation, And that is what I did.'

Bristow's Lanolin Shampoo. Includes an illustration of a woman's face and a bottle of the shampoo.

Restful nights... for Babies and Young Children. Golex GRIPE MIXTURE. Includes an illustration of a baby and a bottle of Golex.

MECHANIC SUES FOR OVERTIME PAY
Firm claims 24-hour-a-day contract

QUESTION which may affect all employees working in Nairobi, has been decided by the Justice Thacker in a case heard this week in the Supreme Court. The question is in the case of whether the inclusion of a clause in the contract that the employee shall "devote his whole time and energy" to the service of his employer in return for a fixed salary, entitles the employer to require the employee to work for seven days a week without extra payment.

Stipulation
The firm, the East African Mechanical Engineering Co., Ltd., is suing the employee, Mr. J. Thacker, for overtime pay. The stipulation in the contract was that the employee would devote his whole time to the service of the firm.

COMPTON HITS 100 CENTURIES

England's 14th cricketer to do so

MEMBERS in the pavilion at Lord's rose to their feet on Wednesday evening when Douglas Compton walked in. This is an honour reserved only for great cricketers. And it was a great occasion for Compton himself, who has his 100th century in first-class cricket.

A party had already been arranged by the Middlesex team but it was not ready for Compton. It was for the young Middlesex players, Alan Moss and Don Bennett. Compton's century came in the County cup on Tuesday but that is the century of centuries. There were three passes of centuries instead of two.

WIMBLEDON TO BE BEST EVER

Will Sedgman succeed this time?

by CHARLES STEPHEN
ON Monday, June 23, the Surrey town of Wimbledon... which for 50 weeks of the year is just a quiet corner of London's suburbs... it will provide world headline news. On that Monday, the All-England lawn tennis championships begin.

Although known as All-England, the Wimbledon championships are, in fact, world championships. All the stars compete and to win Wimbledon title is regarded as the greatest honour in lawn tennis.

HILL CLUB WINS FIFTH 'BOWL'

Unique record on Kiambu course

STANDARD GOLF CORRESPONDENT
At the weekend the Royal Nairobi No. 11 team won the Frimley of Wales Bowl over 36 holes of the Kiambu course, against bogey, from scratch... They were the only couple to finish on the right side of bogey on both rounds - three up on the Saturday and one up on Sunday. Over the 36 holes they won seven holes from the runners-up, Karen No. 1, who were two down on Saturday and over on Sunday.

TRAFFIC POLICE HAVE BIG JOB ON HAND

5,000 cars a day at Royal Show

The magnitude of the task facing the Kenya Police Traffic Control Section during the Royal Show in Nairobi can be gathered from the fact that they have been asked to be prepared to deal with as many as 5,000 cars a day.

The police arrangement to meet the requirements of the show will involve almost 50 sections of parking space having been prepared in the vicinity of Mitchell Park. The police personnel who will be responsible for the control of the cars will be drawn from the Kenya Police Force and will be stationed at various points around the show grounds. The police will also be responsible for the control of the traffic entering and leaving the show grounds. The police will also be responsible for the control of the traffic entering and leaving the show grounds.

The maps

To aid the public in following the show traffic, the Kenya Police Traffic Control Section has prepared a series of maps showing the routes of the cars. These maps will be available to the public at the show grounds. The maps will show the routes of the cars entering and leaving the show grounds. The maps will also show the locations of the various parking areas. The maps will be available to the public at the show grounds.

Three lanes

At least three lanes will be used for the show traffic. The lanes will be marked with signs and will be used for the entry and exit of the cars. The lanes will be used for the entry and exit of the cars.

Police station

A police station will be established at the show grounds. The station will be used for the control of the traffic and for the handling of any emergencies. The station will be used for the control of the traffic and for the handling of any emergencies.

AN OLDEN DAYS' RECIPE

London's Fashion fortnight

By Allison Settle

DURING two weeks of each year the London clothes manufacturing industry invites buyers from other countries to attend the various displays of their designs in the various branches of dress design in London for two or three days.

Forgetting for the moment the summer line collections of green and bamboo, blue and chambray, which the London show on the new line, and of the Royal Academy and the Fashion Council, the various branches of dress design in London for two or three days.

KNOWN in Britain as "The B.B.C. Fashion Cook," Philip Harben recently gave a series of lectures in the General Overseas Service.

is one of the best in the world. He has been a model for many a fashion designer in London.

The old way
Some time ago Harben discussed the new way of doing things in the fashion business. He pointed out that the old way was to make a dress from a pattern, then to make a dress from a pattern, then to make a dress from a pattern.

Suggestion for a Coronation Souvenir
A SUGGESTION for dress designers and manufacturers is to make a Coronation Souvenir which is not only a souvenir but also a work of art.

LONDON SEASON OFF TO LATE START

By Dorothy Barkley

Reversible cloth
COLOURS in the Grosvenor House display were being worn on the London leading show for cold weather. The new line of reversible cloth was a great success.

The London season
The London season normally opens in May with the private showing of the Royal Academy Summer Exhibition and continues throughout May and June and the first week in July.

Most of us love
Tlapiya, or lake fish, which is one of the most popular of all the fish. It is a delicious food and is easy to cook.

WOMEN naturally want to be fashionable. They want to be in the latest style. They want to be in the latest style.

Another supper dish
The potato is a very good food. It is a delicious food and is easy to cook. It is a very good food.

Hand-worked pottery
The pottery is a very good art. It is a beautiful art and is very interesting. It is a very good art.

Why be one of a crowd?

By Joan Freyberg

"It always amazes me when I see a man in a suit, like old Blank, I don't think he is a German."

"I don't know what you mean, Joan. He is a man in a suit, like old Blank, I don't think he is a German."

"I'll take K.O.L."

SELECTIVE BUYING is being done. There is a growing feeling of conservatism about fashion. You'll quickly find that for all that money, K.O.L. products are your available choice.

"Is there a crisis or isn't there?" is the question

The world is entitled to be confused about which way Britain is going. We are confused, ourselves. Last week we were not sure whether we should walk around the streets with long faces, lightening our joints, putting our noses to the grindstone, pulling our belts, etc. Or should we smile with happy contentment at our recent achievements? It is this crisis or isn't this a crisis? The prophets of gloom are gloomy: the prophets of good cheer are cheerful. We have had some gloom, but we ought to have more. The pound stands firm—and there are dark rumours of depression. We are paying our way, and going deep into the red at the same time.

As far as the ordinary citizen is concerned it is not known to a great extent that he is worrying about the national situation of the country. He is more of his own family's business than of the country's. The present of post-war Britain is a changing one. There is a new order of things, a new order of things, a new order of things. There is a new order of things, a new order of things, a new order of things. There is a new order of things, a new order of things, a new order of things.

Why really smart women carry a Ronson?

For distinction... Put a Ronson

THESE are the irritations left behind by the post-war British experiment. There are also great gains, and these, on the average, and for the most of the time, are better than ever before in Britain.

The health of children, because of better feeding, is higher than ever. There is more of the Labour Government, and it is certainly supported with the aid of food subsidies, heavy taxation, family allowances, school meals, and free firewood.

Now, there is a Conservative Government in Britain and the Labour Government in the Colonies. The British experiment is over. The British experiment is over. The British experiment is over.

A Question of Conscience

By Sir Philip Mitchell

THE first result from the Kenya Executive Council is that the Government has shown a willingness to accept the views of the African members. This is a significant step towards a more inclusive and representative government. The Executive Council has been formed with a view to broadening the basis of the Government and ensuring that the views of the African people are fully represented in the decision-making process.

Pioneers
To the Editor: "A Standard"
Sir—Margaret Maclean's biography of Mary and John McQueen in your issue of April 22 recalls in memory the men and women who pioneered in British East Africa in the 19th century, and with whom I came into personal contact. Back to my nostrils come again a whiff of the undergrowth and odor of copra in Zanzibar and Mombasa, where as a youngster I first met the soil of tropical Africa, over 20 years ago.

FIFTY YEARS' HISTORY OF THE K.A.R.

Proudly celebrated by a ceremonial 'guard', the colours of one of Kenya's battalions of The King's African Rifles will be trooped at Mitchell Park today to mark the 50th anniversary of the Regiment.

Similar ceremonies will take place in Uganda, Tanganyika and Nyasaland—the homes of the other battalions.

Here, BRIAN PARKES writes of the origin and history of the Regiment.

Nick of time

BACK came the messenger from the 1st Battalion of the East African Rifles for help. Help they did give. They were a company set out to arrive in the provincial capital in the local transport communications particularly were to be maintained.

They had marched 300 miles in 19 days. And each man had a 65lb. load to carry!

They arrived wearing the tide of battle and the dust of the march. Later they managed to get back into their camp and it was not until 1940 that they were re-organised.

In the years between the re-organisation of The Uganda Rifles had been undertaken by 100 battalions was formed a combination of 200 British and 200 Indian battalions. The 1st and 2nd Central African Rifles were the 2nd and 3rd battalions of the Uganda Rifles. The 4th and 5th were the 4th and 5th battalions of the East African Rifles.

Reorganisation

WHEN the battalions returned on the following day, the first step was to re-organise all the various regiments into The King's African Rifles under one name.

Lord Lugard

WHAT if the colonial official will show his history and tradition lies behind these residents in East and Central Africa? The King's African Rifles will be trooped at Mitchell Park today to mark the 50th anniversary of the Regiment.

Similar ceremonies will take place in Uganda, Tanganyika and Nyasaland—the homes of the other battalions.
