CHINESE COMMUNISTS TRY TO WIN OVER THE MONGOLS

By FRANK ROBERTSON

RECENT developments indicate that the Chinese Communist Party is attempting to unify China's Mongol population into a single political entity as a means of pacifying the border separating China and Outer Mongolia.

An integral part of the Chinese Communist Party's policy appears to be the creation of the Inner Mongolian autonomous region, which is to be administered by a Communist Party official appointed in 1947 to embrace all the main Mongol elements in the area of China.

Under this autonomous region, the Communist Party is attempting to establish a semi-autonomous Mongolian area of Western Mongolia, and the Communist Party is also attempting to establish a semi-autonomous Mongolian area of Eastern Mongolia.

However, the capital of the Inner Mongolian Autonomous Region is to be moved to Kowloon, capital of the New Territories, which is the main Chinese city of the autonomous region.

It is interesting to note that the Communist Party has been successful in winning the support of the Mongolian people, and that the Communist Party has been successful in winning the support of the Mongolian people.

U.S. Tariffs cause a cold war defeat
INCREASING TRADE BARRIERS

UNITED STATES GOVERNMENT officials fear that European nations will be driven into closer trade ties with the Soviet bloc unless the trend towards trade "barriers" in the United States is checked. President Truman is making an appeal to the United States Congress to lower the value of the tariff that the majority of domestic trade groups for more and more protection against foreign imports is demanding.

The fact that the increase in the tariff on European goods would have a serious effect on the United States economy is the main reason why the United States government is so anxious to see that the tariff is lowered.

The tariff on European goods is now 40 per cent. This is a high rate, and it is one of the main reasons why European goods are not sold in large quantities in the United States.

General outlines Army life of an African askari

ADDRESS TO ROTARIANS

A SKEAKS in the East African forces — their treatment while serving — askaris and their civilian life — all these problems have been surveyed in a lecture given by Lieutenant-General Sir Alexander M. Cameron, G.O.C. East Africa Command, to the Rotarians of Nairobi.

General Cameron, who controls the African Section of the British Legion in Kenya, is the senior British officer in the East African Forces. He is also the senior British officer in the East African Forces. He is also the senior British officer in the East African Forces.

He said that the askari was a "dirty dog" of play but that they were not so. He said that they were not so. He said that they were not so.

TEACH THEM TO HELP SELVES

— says Captain

SICKLY sentiment should be put aside in the matter of the education of askaris, and instead they should be helped to appreciate their own position, declared Captain C. H. Ship, Director of the African Section of the British Legion in Kenya, when he spoke at a recent meeting of the Forum in Nairobi.

"I believe" he said, "that people should be encouraged to help themselves in the way of their own free will. It is not the duty of the Government to provide for them, but to help them to help themselves. It is not the duty of the Government to provide for them, but to help them to help themselves."

Investigation of robbery led to Mau Mau

COURT TOLD

POLICE askaris, investigating the robbery of a bank at Nyeri, interrupted a Mau Mau outbreak in the area.

The robbery was carried out by a party of Mau Mau fighters who were disguised as askaris. They entered the bank and took away a large sum of money.

The police were alerted to the robbery and sent a detachment to investigate. They discovered the robbery and arrested several Mau Mau fighters.

Signs of boom for tourist trade

Popularity of East Africa

EAST AFRICA'S place on the world tourist map has been established and figures for the first six months of the year show that the tourist industry in the four territories is booming.

The number of tourists has increased significantly. This is due to the popularity of East Africa as a tourist destination.

Early history

Captain A. J. King, Director of the African Section of the British Legion in Kenya, outlined the early history of the askari.

He said that the askari was first introduced into East Africa in the late 19th century. They were used as a means of maintaining order in the region.

Consistent

It is believed that tourist arrivals during the month of July were consistently numerous.

The number of tourists has remained high throughout the year. This is a sign of the consistent popularity of East Africa as a tourist destination.

Iron sought in Tanganyika

The Canadian Government is interested in the iron resources of Tanganyika.

The Government has sent a mission to investigate the iron resources of the region. They are looking for areas where iron can be mined.

U.S. admits 100 Tanganyikans

Tanganyika is given an annual quota of 100 American tourists.

The United States has agreed to this quota. This is a sign of the growing relationship between the two countries.

South Africans to tour New Zealand

A party of 12 persons have been selected to tour New Zealand.

The party will visit various parts of the country. This is a sign of the growing relationship between South Africa and New Zealand.

Significance of a hat

After pleading not guilty to a charge of stealing a hat, a man was found guilty.

The man was charged with stealing a hat from a shop. He was found guilty of the crime.

Today's Case List

Several cases are listed for today's court sessions.

The cases include matters of civil and criminal law. They will be heard in the court today.

Extra police under canvas

POLICE have been increased in Nairobi to deal with the growing number of tourists.

The extra police are being used to maintain order and ensure the safety of the tourists. This is a sign of the growing tourism industry in Nairobi.

Important

Said to regard the establishment of National Parks in East Africa as a matter of great importance.

The Government is planning to establish several National Parks. This is to protect the natural heritage of the region.

Ambition

Unlike many who are attracted to East Africa, the American tourist is not attracted to the East African coast.

They are more interested in the interior of the continent. This is a sign of the changing face of East African tourism.

HOW KENYA BOYS ARE LEARNING THE QUALITIES OF LEADERSHIP

JOHN G. CLARKE describes the activities of the Kenya Combined Cadet Force which hopes by 1953 to have a strength of 800 boys. The emphasis, he says, is on leadership and the power to 'put it over.'

THERE are, at the moment, some 440 boys in Kenya schools receiving training in the Combined Cadet Force—equipping them with the knowledge of how to lead men both in time of peace and war. By January next year the Commanding Officers of the three companies in the Colony—at the Prince of Wales, the Duke of York and St. Mary's Schools—hope to increase their numbers substantially so that their total strength will then be well over 800 cadets.

This is a large proportion of the number of boys at the schools concerned and amounts to a majority of all Kenya youths between 14 years and school-leaving age. Apart from knowing their drill and a good deal of "what-it-all-about" technical knowledge.

The Staff Photographer's pictures show cadets of the Duke of York School at their training. Top right, the assembly at "right dress" while on parade. The left, one of the more advanced units along the Bren gun. Centre left, Lieutenant-Commander M. Egan, R.N., 1952, inspecting training under the watchful eye of Permanent Services instructor. Bottom left, an advanced squad leader demonstrates how to strip the Bren gun while immediately below Cadet E. K. Ferguson supervises a rifle reading lesson. At the "shooting range." Bottom right, 2nd Lt. E. K. Ferguson supervises a rifle reading lesson. At the end, centre right, dismissed of the day, the boys return messons and stores to the Armoury.

They live in a haunted rectory

Many old settlers will remember the Rev. Marcus Fallon, one of Kenya's earliest Ministers.

PICTURED in the grounds of their picturesque rectory in Kent are the Rev. and Mrs. Marcus Fallon, who were among Kenya pioneers nearly 50 years ago.

It was in 1914 only eight years after he had been ordained, that Rev. Marcus Fallon, one of Kenya's earliest pioneers, came to Kenya. He was then 30 years of age. He was ordained in the Province of Canterbury, and had a former vicarage in Kent. He was then 30 years of age. He was ordained in the Province of Canterbury, and had a former vicarage in Kent. He was then 30 years of age.

For which the evidence is in inscription on the tombstone of a woman who was buried in the grounds of the rectory. The collection of carved gravestones on top of her grave, Mrs. Fallon carried to Kenya in 1914. The gravestone is of a simple design, and is inscribed with the name of the woman who was buried in the grounds of the rectory. IS IT YOUR MONEY THEY WANT?

During his 12 years' ministry in Kenya, the Rev. W. M. Fallon saw the preparation for the cathedral in Nairobi. He left the Highlands, but he left the cathedral in Nairobi. He left the Highlands, but he left the cathedral in Nairobi. He left the Highlands, but he left the cathedral in Nairobi.

Why not make a break with tradition?

DOES your ideal bride drift down the aisle in diaphanous, full-length dress with long train, floating behind? Would a bride in a ball-length dress—no train, no flowing veil, no full-length skirt sweeping the floor—afford your sense of tradition?

By Dorothy Barkley

Maybe you are one of those women who can adjust herself to the vagaries of fashion in any dress. It requires many people, of course, to make a break with tradition. It requires many people, of course, to make a break with tradition. It requires many people, of course, to make a break with tradition.

With tucked bodice and bouffant skirt? Or one in a dress with a high collar, long sleeves, and a full skirt—no train, no flowing veil, no full-length skirt sweeping the floor—afford your sense of tradition?

Dream dress

But the 17-foot gown is not the only one that is a dream. It is a dream, of course, to have a dress that is a dream. It is a dream, of course, to have a dress that is a dream. It is a dream, of course, to have a dress that is a dream.

Thinking ahead

Brides and bridesmaids, planning their clothes on the day of the wedding, are thinking ahead. They are thinking ahead, of course, to have a dress that is a dream. It is a dream, of course, to have a dress that is a dream. It is a dream, of course, to have a dress that is a dream.

Solving the dog problem

J. At Venting offers advice to dog lovers on how to tie their pet without complete restriction.

In a country where restrictions make it necessary to tie the dogs because of rabies, and in some of our neighbours, the dog lovers' problem becomes trying to tie the dog so that he is not put in the end of a short chain all day long. The dog is not put in the end of a short chain all day long. The dog is not put in the end of a short chain all day long.

BEHIND THE SCENES IN OPERATIONS 999

KENNETH MEADOWS describes the working of Nairobi's latest weapon in the war against crime in the city. The men and women of this new 'arm' of the Police, he says, have performed minor miracles.

"THE other day somebody dialled 999—and to use an American phrase—"spilled a mountain." Why didn't the police do this and that? Why were the police never there when they were wanted? It was quite a sight.

Not many hours later the Manager of a local restaurant placed a personal call at the police station. He was very sorry. Why hadn't his customer about been attended for?

He's sympathetic... yes. But not necessarily indignant. It is only when the secretary of his firm is infringed that the wrath really begins at the head office and is being the perpetrator is look.

Non-stop vigil
I've spent many hours behind the scenes at 999 operations during the past few days. There they have the full picture of crime in the city at any one time. And the undisturbed activities and details of Mr. A and Mr. B fall into the picture and are seen in clear perspective.

There are limits. You can't cover a battlefield with a microscope. And Nairobi is pretty big battlefield.

It is only those that men—only those that men—when their identities behind their faces performed minor miracles during these past few weeks, have moved beyond the line of duty. They themselves do not deserve the word of respect. Some of them have been at their posts 18 or more hours a day.

During the night the burden of the non-stop vigil is shared with members of the Kenya Police Reserve, without whose assistance 999 would at this time be a mere skeleton on paper.

The K.P.R. is very efficient. Starting the hour before, the Acting Provincial Commissioner

NORMAN WANTS TOUGHER GOLF

By James Goodfellow

NORMAN VON NIDA, a dynamic 35-year-old Australian who has won thousands of pounds in British golf since 1946, has said he would like to see the game made tougher.

He said he had before now thought that he had made his last contribution to the game. But he had been so successful in the past that he had been asked to play in the 1952 Commonwealth Games, and he had been asked to play in the 1954 British Empire and Commonwealth Games. He said he would like to see the game made tougher.

His best year

His best year was 1947 when he won the largest money prize in the history of the game. He had won the £10,000 prize in the 1947 British Open. He had also won the £5,000 prize in the 1947 Australian Open. He had also won the £2,500 prize in the 1947 New Zealand Open. He had also won the £1,250 prize in the 1947 South African Open. He had also won the £625 prize in the 1947 West Indies Open. He had also won the £312 10s prize in the 1947 Ceylon Open. He had also won the £156 5s prize in the 1947 Hong Kong Open. Soccer days are here once again

There is the news for which soccer fans have been waiting. The Football Association has announced that it will allow professional players to play in the 1952 Commonwealth Games. This will be the first time since 1908 that professional players have been allowed to compete in the Olympic Games. The FA has also announced that it will allow professional players to play in the 1954 British Empire and Commonwealth Games. This will be the first time since 1908 that professional players have been allowed to compete in the Commonwealth Games.

Won't not suffer

Professional players will not suffer from the new rules. The FA has announced that it will allow professional players to play in the 1952 Commonwealth Games. This will be the first time since 1908 that professional players have been allowed to compete in the Olympic Games. The FA has also announced that it will allow professional players to play in the 1954 British Empire and Commonwealth Games. Is Gentlemen Players game outdated?

WITTING the traditional bound framework of the game, writes Archie Quick, there is more opposition than one would expect to find in the continuation of the historic Gentlemen v Players match at Lord's.

It was the opinion of many whom I heard talking in the pavilion on the first day of the match, and it would not be surprising to find some change made next year. The Gentlemen's team must be replaced by a 15-man team consisting of 10 first-class cricketers and five second-class cricketers. This would be a more representative team than the Gentlemen's team.

Will be die-hards

There will be die-hards who will fight against this for the sake of the game. The Gentlemen's team must be replaced by a 15-man team consisting of 10 first-class cricketers and five second-class cricketers. This would be a more representative team than the Gentlemen's team.

British Test hopes against Australia

By Bruce Harris

LESS than eleven months ago, on June 11, 1951, the Australians first met England in the first of the Test matches. The only ones who griped thoroughly, imagination permitting, were the players of the two countries who originated the Test match. In 1948, when the Australians were led by Bradman, the English were led by Stanger. The Australians were led by Bradman, the English were led by Stanger. The Australians were led by Bradman, the English were led by Stanger.

The chief find

The chief find was that the Australians were led by Bradman, the English were led by Stanger. The Australians were led by Bradman, the English were led by Stanger. The Australians were led by Bradman, the English were led by Stanger.

Why children need Horlicks!

Growing children spend more energy. Horlicks is the ideal balance food which makes up for spent energy. Made from pure full-cream cow milk, plus the nutritive as well as healthy and malted barley, Horlicks gives children the energy they require to grow up healthy and strong. As Horlicks contains milk, it only requires the addition of water.

MORNING MISERY?
take Alka-Seltzer for quick, pleasant relief
If you wake up with a nagging headache, an upset stomach—don't let it spoil your day! Drink a glass of sparkling, refreshing Alka-Seltzer. Its alkaline ingredients soothe the over-acid stomach while the analgesic takes away your headache. Alka-Seltzer's active ingredients—the familiar Bayer—make it so pleasant to take and gives it the extra kick you need to get going. It's a satisfying, you see, take it any time. Keep a supply on hand—always.

THE FRIDAY MISCELLANY

Pupil and teacher success; back from their travels; echo of Kipling.

There is so much for East African visitors to see in the city's many schools, that a schoolmaster who has been touring the country for a few days, has returned with a glowing report. He says that the schools are doing very well, and that the pupils are very well behaved. He also says that the teachers are very well trained, and that the standards of education are very high. He concludes by saying that the schools are a credit to the country, and that the pupils and teachers are a credit to the country.

PLANNING CAREER

London for a few days then on to Hamburg, where they are to spend a few days. The marked rise in the price of the destroyed houses in the city is a serious problem. The city is still in a state of reconstruction, and the people are still suffering from the effects of the war. The city is still a beautiful city, but it is still a city in need of help.

Mrs. Sylvia Ryder and her daughter Helen.

MAYERS CHAMPION THREE TIMES IN A ROW

Equals Dunlop's record from the '30s

KONGONIS FIND FORM

SOME members of the Kenya Olympic team had a very good start in their first appearance at a major international sports meeting in London in a draw.

D. W. Dawson, the Kenyan runner, was the first to start, and he was the only one to finish. He was the only one to finish, and he was the only one to finish.

Ferialis star of Bank Holiday races

MR. T. H. CHITFIELD's chestnut colt, Ferialis, took the two premier prizes of the Nairobi August meeting on Monday by repeating his Saturday's success of winning the Aga Khan Trophy, by the Governor's Commemorative Cup.

It was no fluke either, though, as he was the first to move up at the starting post where he left the field and he won the Aga Khan Trophy and the Governor's Commemorative Cup.

R. J. MAYERS' Kenya's finest champion

It was the only rider of the four competing to retain a record which he had set in 1949 when he won the Aga Khan Trophy, by the Governor's Commemorative Cup.

It was no fluke either, though, as he was the first to move up at the starting post where he left the field and he won the Aga Khan Trophy and the Governor's Commemorative Cup.

Complete command

The look command from the Kenya Olympic team had eliminated the rest, and it was the only rider of the four competing to retain a record which he had set in 1949 when he won the Aga Khan Trophy, by the Governor's Commemorative Cup.

STEADY START BY ENGLAND

Hutton first to go with score at 143

The fourth and final match in the present Test series between England and India started at the Oval in London on Wednesday and it was already made sure of the "rubber" having won all the three previous matches.

The weather was warm and bright and the Oval was packed with spectators. England's batting line-up was headed by the captain, Hutton, of England, and Hansard of India, went out to bat. Hutton called for a new ball and the first over was bowled by the Indian bowler, from the 13 who had been named in the Indian team at the Oval.

Hutton's batting was steady and he was obviously well prepared for the match which was played on Thursday and he led out in the Middlesex team which is at present at Dover playing the Kent team.

MOTOR OIL

Answer
Pollution of the oil by soot, dust, water, petrol, etc., is considerable in any known car engine, so it is best to stick to the oil change period laid down by the manufacturer.
Using the same oil too long overloads it with deposits.

BRITAIN STILL FEELS EFFECT OF
COMMONWEALTH TRADE CUTS

BRITAIN'S provisional overseas trade figures for July were issued by the Board of Trade today as a mixed showing.
The decline in British exports was expected, but the drop in Commonwealth trade restrictions, has not been halted, but dollar exports improved. The daily rate of exports was fairly steady from January until April but fell eight per cent in May, four per cent in June, and July was nine per cent below the average for the second quarter.

One element says the figures make bad reading, but they react to early to be allowed over the trend of exports.
An important and long overdue adjustment is given in the artificially inflated sterling area markets have struck to something nearer their normal capacity to buy.

Exports to the C.E.C. countries have been declining, but the high level reached in the first quarter of this year, though not increased at about the 1951 rate.
The other hand exports to the Commonwealth have been depressed since the beginning of 1952.

Exports to Canada
for the first three months of 1952 were 25 per cent above average, and almost regained the level of 1951. Exports to the United States were maintained despite slacker markets for combined goods that consisted of All the signs to exports of aside unwelcome news of steel and other raw materials.

Through the recovery of exports is too recent to make a judgment there is some reason to believe that the recovery of exports is not yet complete. The

THE MAGAZINE SECTION PUTS KENYA HISTORY 'ON THE RECORD'
The Story Of The Man-Eater Of Kima

W. ROBERT FORAN RECALLS...

The story of 52 years ago of the tragedy at Kima when a man-eating lion took and devoured a man from a railway coach standing in a siding at the station.

AND SAYS...

"It is appreciated that this is a much needed tale, but many accounts have been grossly distorted and it seems duty for an older time writer to give a true record for future reference."

"I have had unusual opportunities for checking the evidence and I can absolutely vouch for what I write after as I factually compare notes of this tragic but unique fatality."

"The real oddities are rapidly wearing on me because the historical data is lost because no record is. Surely it is for me I would like to see the records of the past which others..."

At his foot over the door to keep watch.
 The latter told me that another animal happened during the period of delay and was wrapped round in sleep on the floor in the centre of the coach. His head and feet faced in the same direction as the windows beside his trunk to their fullest extent, protruding his head and shoulders with pillows. A handkerchief rested across his thighs.
 It was watching.

This picture of the Man-Eater of Kima as one of the many taken of the lion in the trap in which it was caught. It is reproduced by courtesy of East African Railways and Harbours.

The sliding pane of the door had been left open as a last invitation to the intruder, while chance of killing the man when illuminated in the doorway.
 It was discovered later by a railway official that night slumbering with the seat would cause the pane to slide shut. Due to a poor order call of the loop line would be expected. This fact of great importance and had a definite bearing upon the man-eater. It explains the man-eater's death.

Parents said that after he returned by train and when he had been seen casually that he could see a couple of lions playing about in the darkness outside and the smell was very strong. This was the first time he had seen lions in the area. He was told by Harard in the next few days that the man-eater had been killed on the footpath and mounted on to the platform at the rear of the compartment. Parents and Harard were then sleeping soundly when they were disturbed at night about 11.30 p.m. when they heard a noise on the platform. The man-eater was seen on the platform. It was killed by Harard in the next few days.

Parents must have advanced slightly, stepped on to the footpath and mounted on to the platform at the rear of the compartment. Parents and Harard were then sleeping soundly when they were disturbed at night about 11.30 p.m. when they heard a noise on the platform. The man-eater was seen on the platform. He was told by Harard in the next few days that the man-eater had been killed on the footpath and mounted on to the platform at the rear of the compartment.

Parents said that after he returned by train and when he had been seen casually that he could see a couple of lions playing about in the darkness outside and the smell was very strong. This was the first time he had seen lions in the area. He was told by Harard in the next few days that the man-eater had been killed on the footpath and mounted on to the platform at the rear of the compartment.

Sliding door
 The sliding pane of the door had been left open as a last invitation to the intruder, while chance of killing the man when illuminated in the doorway.

Sound asleep
 Parents and Harard were then sleeping soundly when they were disturbed at night about 11.30 p.m. when they heard a noise on the platform.

The horrible affair at Kima in the first week of June, 1900, remains unique after a passage of 52 years. It is the only occasion when a man-eating lion took a human victim from within a railway coach standing in a siding at a station.
 The railroad of the Uganda Railway had just reached the bleak and swampy area where now stands the City of Nairobi and Kima was a station on the line, situated 241 miles from Mombasa and 90 miles from the rail-head at Nairobi.
 I did not find in what was now the British East Africa Protectorate until close upon four years after the incident that the tragic story, though not so much made a part of considerable public interest, still and together as nearly a complete account of it as available.

The survivors
 I saw the two Harardes, a Parani and a Harard, who were the only survivors of the attack. They were taken to the station and then to Nairobi. The Harardes were taken to the station and then to Nairobi. The Parani was taken to the station and then to Nairobi.

He sat on the gentle slope of a small hill. The neighbourhood of Kima was then a barren and uninhabited waste, thickly harboured by many varieties of game. Today it is the centre of an important steel industry.
 The station building was about 15 feet by 15 feet, and was divided into an office and living quarters for the station staff. The office was on the right and the living quarters on the left. The station was built on a slight rise above the ground level.

Nairobi to report that a man-eater had taken an evening dinner during daylight. It was long reported the loss of more than a score of people. The station was then a barren and uninhabited waste, thickly harboured by many varieties of game. Today it is the centre of an important steel industry.

had an investigation to carry out at Kima concerning the petty thieving from the station's staff. He accompanied Harard on the train to Kima, and there upon the night. On arrival at Kima, Harard ordered that his inspection should be discontinued on to the footpath. He then proceeded to the station and there he saw three Europeans occupying a composite coach, seated while still over and on to the coach. The centre was a small table and a bench. The Harardes were seated on the bench and the Parani was seated on the table.

Intense terror
 The staff comprised only three men—a station-master, a Harard, and a Parani. The station-master was in the office and the Harardes were in the living quarters.

The plan
 Harard, then stationed at Mombasa, found it necessary to travel to Nairobi to break his journey. He was accompanied by a Harard and a Parani.

He then proceeded to the station and there he saw three Europeans occupying a composite coach, seated while still over and on to the coach. The centre was a small table and a bench. The Harardes were seated on the bench and the Parani was seated on the table.

At the time of the attack at Kima, the station was a small building with a single office and living quarters. The station-master was in the office and the Harardes were in the living quarters. The Parani was in the living quarters. The station was built on a slight rise above the ground level.

FIVE miles out from Nairobi on the Athi River Road the Cleaning Department of Nairobi City Council have a profitable business — now in its second trading year — selling the city's garbage.

The refuse from all the city's districts is carried to the Athi River site where, after a four-month process, it is transformed into high-grade compost which is becoming increasingly sought after by local farmers for soil fertilization.

2,000 tons

Over 2,000 tons of the waste compost at 10/- per ton was sold by the Department last year but the authorities say that they could produce 20-25,000 tons a year if the demand was there.

There is every indication that Kenya farmers are becoming increasingly interested in this cheap method of fertilizing their soil in condition.

It was approximately a year ago that a pilot scheme for the composting of refuse from the city was started by the Cleaning Department under the direction of the Superintendent of Cleansing, Mr. A. McDowell. For the past seven years Mr. McDowell, who has been 10 years in the Department, has been experimenting to find the most satisfactory and economical method of producing the compost.

The scheme he has evolved, adapted from processes used in Holland and other continental countries, is a combination of the best of both worlds.

At the various stages the refuse is broken up, dried, and then mixed with a certain amount of water. It is then piled up in a certain way and covered with a layer of soil. The pile is then left for a certain period of time and then turned over. This process is repeated several times until the compost is ready for use.

the stacks in their hundreds helping to scavenge food from them.

Under sawdust

ADDIED by the dense layer of sawdust—which is its chief refuse from local carpenter firms—the temperature of the stack rises up to 140 degrees F thereby giving a sterilizing effect to the refuse.

After a month the temperature in the stack has dropped considerably and it is time to turn it very thoroughly along the entire length, watering it at the same time. The turning is repeated once a month for three months.

At the end of the fourth month the refuse is screened in a rotary sieve to remove all the foreign matter such as glass and tin cans from what is now high-quality compost. The remaining vegetable material is then stacked in one-ton piles until wanted—the Department makes its own delivery within the City area for a very small charge.

Refuse from Nairobi is especially suitable for composting as it contains a large percentage of different vegetable matter, in comparison with two years ago it was found that the process resulted in a 40 per cent yield of compost; weight for weight, which is an excellent return.

The actual yield in the half-acre scheme, however, is not

As high as this due to the less meticulous technique actually in practice.

Good for soil

APART from the financial gain for a very small outlay by the Department, perhaps the most important effect of the scheme is the benefit obtained by local soils through the use of compost—especially in food production.

From the governor's point of view there is a big disadvantage in the continuous use of artificial fertilizers. While these contain plant food in concentrated form they do not effect an appreciable alteration in the physical condition of the soil. Their chief function is to increase fertility and not to maintain it and sustained exclusive use of it tends to deplete the alkaliphilous humus —or binding quality—of the soil.

This point is well appreciated by local farmers and increasing demands are expected on this natural, entirely beneficial, soil-fertilizer now being manufactured on their doorstep.

At the moment sales of the Nairobi compost are mainly being made to people who have bought it privately and who include coffee growers, market gardeners, horticultural experts

As well as the ordinary gardeners of the city.

Further added

REQUIREMENT have also been coming in to the Department from the East African states and it is expected that large quantities of compost will shortly be demanded from other districts such as the Rift Valley, Kericho, Nakuru and Kiambu and west to as far away as Eldoret.

Before long the Cleaning Department hope that they will be selling all the compost they are able to produce.

Sportsmen flee 'Iron Curtain'

CSPORT and politics until the advent of totalitarianism were regarded as air and water—did not mix. But at times have changed and a recent survey in Vienna revealed the existence of sportsmen and women as political refugees.

In the last four years at least 20 prominent athletes from Communist-dominated countries in Europe have sought refuge in countries outside the Iron Curtain.

Included in this total are at least 120 Czechs who fled their country since the Prague coup of 1948. The survey also included athletes from Poland, the well-known tennis player Maga and Victoria King, and footballer Bryan Roy, a top-class countryman from Kazakhstan, a prominent ski jumper.

Holiday Beaches

BY LORD DUNSANY

In August the principal feature of the Senese beaches is the sea and all along the edge of its tide, where the green glittering crescent of what looks like mosses or hair, either shorn from their heads by a powerful storm or torn from their heads by the wind, the sea is a mass of white foam, instead of the blue of the sea.

There was a small, fat, round man, who was sitting on the beach, looking at the sea. He was wearing a white shirt and dark trousers. He was looking at the sea with a look of intense interest.

Summer scene in the Senese beach resort, Senese, Senese, Senese.

There was a small, fat, round man, who was sitting on the beach, looking at the sea. He was wearing a white shirt and dark trousers. He was looking at the sea with a look of intense interest.

BUTTER, CHEESE PRICES GO UP

Increased from Tuesday Milk to be Dearer Next Month

Butter and cheddar-type cheese went up in price on Tuesday by 20 cents and 10 cents per pound, respectively. The increases were announced in a Government report which stated that the price of milk was increased, and would be increased during the next month. The increase in the price of milk was due to an agreement between the farmers and the Government. The Government will buy the milk at a price of 3/10 to 3/15 a pound and cheese from 7/6 to 7/9 a pound. The new wholesale prices are—butter up from 2/5 to 2/7 per pound and cheese from 2/10 to 2/12 per pound. The retail price of butter is now 3/10 to 3/12 per pound; cheese from 2/8 to 2/10 per pound.

Under the agreement between the Government and the farmers, the industry was to have a 10 per cent increase in the price of milk. However, a new deal was struck. The Government will buy the milk at a price of 3/10 to 3/15 a pound and cheese from 7/6 to 7/9 a pound. The new wholesale prices are—butter up from 2/5 to 2/7 per pound and cheese from 2/10 to 2/12 per pound. The retail price of butter is now 3/10 to 3/12 per pound; cheese from 2/8 to 2/10 per pound.

Reasonable
It should be pointed out that these new prices are reasonable. The fact that the price of milk is being raised within the terms of the agreement is a sign of the Government's determination to support the industry.
