Ritual Murders Conspire In Basutoland

Wife and terrible sins perpetrated by native tribes in Basutoland in many past years, involving a trial of strength between the heads of the black and the white man's idea of justice and retribution, have been observed by three high Commissioner's staff in Basutoland, the most advanced of the three High Commissioner staffs in South Africa.

These rites, dating centuries, are now obsolete, but the natives still carry out the ceremony, and the whole country is filled with a suggestion that the rites are still being performed, and that all efforts are being made to suppress the practice of the native chiefs, and to encourage the natives to accept the law of the land.

Today there is in the High Commissioner's office a report from the High Commissioner's staff in Basutoland, a significant report regarding the rites, and the High Commissioner has appointed a respected member of his staff, Mr. J. H. M. Jones, to investigate the matter.

Mr. Jones has been in Basutoland for some time, and has been successful in his efforts to suppress the practice of the rites, and to encourage the natives to accept the law of the land.

The Land in Kenya

It is perhaps of more than passing importance that at the end of his long and very trying tour of East Africa, the Deputy Secretary of State for the Colonies should have found himself in a mood to be described as one of some feeling of alarm, the appearing of which is not surprising in view of the fact that the British Government has achieved in Kenya for their use. Mr. Cresswell Jones' visit is a most pressing sight. It is a sight which is not only of interest to the people in Kenya for the last decade or more. Not the least discouraging fact has been the inability of public opinion among the British settlement of the country to induce the Colonial Administration to take firm action on a scale or of a nature which would hold out a reasonable hope that an end would be put to the trouble.

If the visit of the Under-Secretary of State has produced a result tantamount to an opening of his eyes to the facts and to cause him to reflect upon the strange weakness in our trusteeship which, despite every warning, has allowed the deterioration to continue, it would be well worth while. However, it may come out of this personal contact with the Under-Secretary of State, and the progress with the well-being and control of the Territories and the approval of the people, we hope that a clearer policy and determination to carry through the effect, will be an early outcome.

Mr. Cresswell Jones has had time to read the mountainous pile of memoranda submitted to him, and reflects upon his tour of this devastated area. "We object to the imposition of limits in the proposed settlement areas for Africans. This is contrary to the African customs and tradition and we feel that this is an ill-considered measure. We welcome advice, of course, but we must not be misled by the fact that the African officials, who are not to be thought that settlements are the most unworkable plan so far as to extricate them before many years to come."

It is interesting to note that the sight of the Ukamba reserve in the appalling mental wilderness in which, after a generation of mismanagement and contact with the African people, their culture is vanishing. This must be something sad to see, especially where with our sense of values, we are at one of the scales of the Executive Chamber of Government House in Nairobi, Mr. Cresswell Jones has given all the freedom of thought and expression which their Press Commission, and also a responsible Local Authority of fellow Africans, whose authority of the fundamental ideas of all life and progress in Kenya was expressed in the words we have quoted.

Not the least serious of the needs of these Territories surely is a reorientation of outlook on the future of the country. Possibilities in East Africa, which are not only of interest to the people, but which we believe that realism has its proper place in the immense task to which the British race has set its hand in these countries.

Mr. Cresswell Jones Visits Kamba Reserve

Secretary of the problem has at once had to be "dear".

Mr. Robert Scott thought the visit of the Under-Secretary of State for the Colonies to the Kamba Reserve in Kenya was a most interesting one. He said that the African people were very friendly and that the conditions were very good. He also mentioned that the British Government was doing its best to improve the situation.

Mr. Cresswell Jones, who is the Under-Secretary of State for the Colonies, visited the Kamba Reserve in Kenya. He was accompanied by a number of officials. The reserve is one of the best in Kenya and is well managed. Mr. Jones was very impressed with the work done there and the friendly nature of the people.

During his visit, Mr. Jones held a number of meetings with the local officials and the people. He discussed the various problems of the reserve and the ways in which they could be solved. He also gave some advice on how the reserve could be improved.

Mr. Jones is expected to visit other parts of Kenya in the near future. His visit to the Kamba Reserve was a most successful one and it is hoped that it will lead to further improvements in the reserve.

Killed By Rhino

One of the most interesting incidents which occurred while on duty in the Kamba Reserve was the death of a man by a rhino. The man, who was a local official, was killed while on duty. The incident was very tragic and it is a reminder of the dangers of the reserve.

CONCORDANCE

OWING to constant and increasing demands for the publication of the African Standard, it is essential that letters to the Editor should be sent to the Editor as soon as possible.

Dramatic Moment in History Recalled

(LONDON, August 22.)

The anniversary of the death of the late King of the Belgians, King Albert I, was commemorated in a dramatic manner in the Belgian Congo. The King's death occurred in 1935, and his death was a most dramatic one. He was killed while on duty in the Congo. The incident was very tragic and it is a reminder of the dangers of the Congo.

ALBINO
 To the Editor, "E.A. Standard."
 I have just read the article on the albino in the Standard of August 13, 1938. I am glad to see that the albino is being treated as a human being and not as a curiosity. I hope that the albino will be able to find a place in our society and that he will be able to live a normal life.

 I have just read the article on the Delaware Memorial in the Standard of August 13, 1938. I am glad to see that the memorial is being built and that it will be a fitting tribute to the fallen soldiers of the Delaware State.

£12,000 GATE FOR BOLTON DISASTER FUND

England did unexpectedly well to draw 2-2 with Scotland in the charity match at Manchester City's ground on Saturday in aid of the Bolton Cup Disaster Fund. There were 70,000 spectators. Having had two weeks of the season in which to get in trim the Scots were warm favourites, but although out of training the Englishmen more than held their own and led 1-1 at half-time. It was not until the closing stages that the Scots drew level.

Cleanliness
comes first for Health!

More and more people are coming to realize that Inner Cleanliness with Andrew's is a first step to health. It is only natural that the body needs cleaning inside as well as externally, and with Andrew's it is easy to make sure of Inner Cleanliness. A plan of washing Andrew's is not only the ideal laxative - it cleanses and gets rid of the whole system, washes away troublesome poisons which can be the cause of many distressing everyday ailments, such as constipation and biliousness. CORRESPONDENCE

INDIAN STANDFAST
To the Editor, "E.A. Standard."
Sir—Your correspondent Mr. J. M. Mombasa writes in your issue of August 5, 1946, that the only reason why the Indian community is to be held responsible for the loss of Indian property is that they are not doing their share in the reconstruction of India. This is a gross misstatement of the facts. The Indian community in East Africa has done more than its share in the reconstruction of India. It has contributed to the reconstruction of India in many ways, including the reconstruction of its educational system, its industrial system, and its social system. It has also contributed to the reconstruction of India in many other ways, including the reconstruction of its political system, its economic system, and its cultural system.
