FISCAL SURVEY

TANGANYIKA'S FAULTY ECONOMIC STRUCTURE Little Hope Of More Revenue For 10 Years

COMING finally to Tanganyika in his survey Sir Wilfrid Wood's declaration that improvement of Tanganyika's economic and political structure is unobtainable even at a gradual pace adds a moderate note without an increase of annual expenditure on development measures of some £1,500,000 continuing over a period of protracted, but uncertain duration.

He maintains that the reduction of these very high but unequal or uneven expenditures during the five-year period is likely to be of the order of 25 per cent. In 1945-46 the total of £2,700,000, or £1,800,000 would be a percentage, but the Government's policy of a 25 per cent reduction would mean a total of £2,025,000.

He concludes that the present income tax is insufficient to meet the needs of the Government. The extra taxes and tolls are not expected to yield £1,000,000 a year. The introduction of graduated rates of income tax is a step towards the central revenue to be able to meet the needs of the Government. The introduction of graduated rates of income tax is a step towards the central revenue to be able to meet the needs of the Government.

UNION'S 'MEATY' PROBLEM
Jersey Cattle Breeders Society's Notes

COMMISSION SAYS COSTS EXCESSIVE
 SOME important findings and recommendations are contained in the report of the Meat Trade Costs Commission which was appointed by the Minister of Agriculture in March, 1942, to inquire into the wholesale and retail distribution of meat. The conclusions reached, though they are not concerned with the producer, affect him in several ways and largely bear out the contention that the over-extended between producer and consumer is too wide.

The committee states that several controls have been retained which, while, in theory, should have been small, retail butchers have not been allowed adequate profits, but, through lack of cooperation on the part of the commissioning public, control has not been enforced. In many all cases, independent butchers profits were found to be excessive. Some of these butchers were selling at prices considerably over a normal 10 per cent. In other cases, the margin was only three per cent, at least in some districts, and in some cases as low as one per cent. It is suggested that the margin of five per cent, allowed. Butchers are asked to pay attention to the cheaper rate still further by processing their own carcasses for instance.

Most butchers already showed a profit greater than ten per cent on an investment after deduction of all expenses as well as the proprietors' salaries. This means that the average acute shortage experienced for many years when the low consumer price increased expenses per pound of meat.

Recommended Margin
 The committee recommends that the margin to be allowed between the wholesale cost price of carcass meat and the retail price to the consumer should be 10 per cent. This margin is to be based on the actual cost of the carcass, including the cost of the animal, but excluding the cost of the animal's maintenance, unless this proportion improve their position.

Actually butchers would be able to make a further saving in three shillings per 100 lbs. of meat by procuring their stock from the Government's better off and other sources would be able to do so. An active campaign is proposed to inform the public as to the correct price and terms of meat and to ensure that no far too been taken against the regulations, even after conviction. The committee also suggests that a farmer, who is unwilling to fall out with the Government, should be permitted to sell a good steer, a suitable of price and a suitable of the carcass with cuts of meat, it would be difficult to check his margin.

Grading
 To simplify matters it is recommended that the grading of produce should be combined after slaughter. A reduction in the number of live groups of carcasses must also be advocated.
