Mr. Maulding to discuss land settlement with Ministers

On the spot survey is his aim

MR. REGINALD MAULDING left London last night to fly to Kenya to take part in the next stage of talks aimed at completing the constitution opening the way to independence.

The Colonial Secretary, who is due at Nairobi Airport this morning, will be met by the Governor of Kenya, Sir Patrick Denison, the Deputy Governor, Mr. E. N. Griffith-Jones, and Ministers. He will spend the first day of his five-day visit in discussions with the Council of Ministers.

Before leaving, Mr. Maulding told reporters at London Airport: "I feel I may be in Kenya on the spot to get a clearer picture of the situation than I have at the moment. It is the only way to make real progress."

No date forecast

He added: "There are tremendous amounts of problems not discussed at London. However, these details must be filled in in Kenya - details which are very important. I cannot forecast when these negotiations will end. At least, not until after my visit when I will have a clearer picture. But my impression is that they have made good progress."

Mr. Maulding said he had some ideas on land settlements to put before the Council of Ministers. The Colonial Secretary recalled his earlier statements that there would be another constitutional conference after a General Election in Kenya to discuss independence and the preceding period of self-government.

The Constitution would have to be worked out before a General Election. It is his intention to make a preliminary commission appointment, which would be discussed at the end of the visit. He also discussed the appointment of a Commission to advise on the land settlement.

Land ideas

Mr. Maulding can now see the Governor should have under an interim self-government. He will discuss the land settlement with the Council of Ministers.

Mr. Maulding has also been subject for fear of jeopardizing the independence of Kenya. He will discuss the land settlement with the Council of Ministers.

Kenya ban on filming MRA play

YOUR leader "Doctors in distress" really focuses the highlights on a very important subject—the production of well-trained doctors from the indigenous peoples of Kenya to serve the future needs of their country.

I READ that the financing of the M.R.A. play The Hurricane has been banned in Kenya. It is a pity that it is not possible to see it in the theatre, for it is a play of great merit and interest. It is a play of new expatriates and their relationship with their new country. It is a play which I know of several other expatriate plays in the theatre to bring about this feeling of brotherhood between white and black and to advance.

We have seen this happen in the past. It is a pity that it is not possible to see it in the theatre, for it is a play of great merit and interest. It is a play of new expatriates and their relationship with their new country. It is a play which I know of several other expatriate plays in the theatre to bring about this feeling of brotherhood between white and black and to advance.

It would be a sad day for Africa if Kenya were to suppress the kind of police State which is being set up in Kenya. I believe that the making of films such as this could be of great value to the people of the new Africa, a place where we can speak of all races and all faiths can live in dignity and freedom.

I WAS much amused by a report in your issue of June 22 about Belgium-Luxembourg and its attitude towards the Congo. It is a pity that it is not possible to see it in the theatre, for it is a play of great merit and interest. It is a play of new expatriates and their relationship with their new country. It is a play which I know of several other expatriate plays in the theatre to bring about this feeling of brotherhood between white and black and to advance.

Industrial strife still torments Kenya

The week in East Africa

Despite 'tripe and trash'... MUCH WAS ACHIEVED IN BUDGET SESSION

Standard Staff Reporter, Dar es Salaam.

TANGANYIKA'S first Budget session since Uhuru ended this week and was described by Mr. P. K. K. Kawawa, as "a historic meeting".

But the Budget was not the only item on the Agenda and a great deal of what was done in the session was Mr. M. K. Kasamwa's "tripe and trash" the House got through with much business.

What was expected to be the most controversial discussion was over three Bills which were aimed at strengthening the trade union movement or take it completely under the control of the Government, raising labour law, in fact, the most heated time to date in the session.

INDUSTRIAL strife in Kenya was still the main topic this week with the Minister for Labour, Mr. Mboya, arriving for a "charter for industrial peace" as almost 100,000 industrial workers showed their solidarity in their third strike since March.

The Minister, in speaking of the joint industrial conference between Labour, the Federation of Kenya Employers and the Ministry, warned the employers and the workers that the Government had the ability to Kenya.

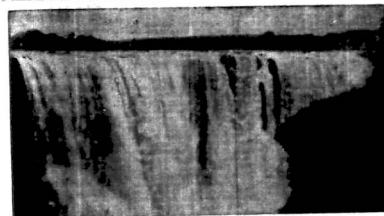

The Minister said that the Government was preparing a charter for industrial peace and that it was not going to be a "charter for the workers but for the workers and the employers."

'Friendly one'

A suggestion that a Tanganyika boycott of Portulac would be a "friendly one" was opposed by the Prime Minister, who said that in case of emergency there would be no objection. Tanganyika, it was explained by other Ministers, might find that an aircraft flying over Portulac territory might require emergency facilities.

TALKS ON UHURU A SUCCESS

Standard Staff Reporter, Kampala.

DISPITE some snags, the Uganda constitutional conference in London reached a more or less successful conclusion, with Britain confirming the date for independence as October 8.

After the presentation of the ultimatum, the news has been an active one.

Now delegates face a marathon session on the Budget, which was delayed until the London talks were suspended.

The Uganda Secretary-General, the long-standing problem of the post-constituent conference at the end of the conference, which was announced that two of the names claimed by Buganda, Bwaga and Buganda, were to be chosen under the "extra Governmental" with a referendum among their people after two years. Buganda has rejected the initiative because it does not return the country before independence and Buganda had turned it down because it includes but overrules it.

To show her disagreement, Buganda says she will not take part in the country's independence celebrations. At the same time, in the name of the country the District Council of Buganda has also voted to support the referendum. It has got a favourable answer in its own mind.

KADU AMAS AT OF £1,000,000,000 TEN YEARS

EXPANSION of Kenya's national income from its present £200,000,000 to £1,000,000,000 in ten years is one of the aims set out in a Kadu paper on land tenure and agricultural development. This paper on land tenure and agricultural development is an independent Kadu paper. It is necessary to provide national defence, adequate social services and modern standards of living in the home. As far as agriculture is concerned, the target for African production is set at £200,000,000 a year compared with £10,000,000 now.

The paper says there is an important place for the European and Asian farmer in the country even a "vital place" for the next few years until African production increases. If production did not increase there would be no future for the Kadu policy. The objective of the Kadu policy is to modernize farmers up to modern economic methods. A 10 per cent production increase is needed for a return to economic methods. This production increase could only be achieved if the Kadu policy is considered in the context of the country as a whole. The paper says that the Kadu policy is not a new policy but a continuation of the policy of the Government and private enterprise. The Kadu policy is not a new policy but a continuation of the policy of the Government and private enterprise. # THE BEST IS HIGH KENYA MARKET

TEMPERATE, vitamin-packed Australian fresh fruits are becoming a trend and 3-7 more part of daily life in many countries of the world. Australian temperate-zone fresh fruits—apples, pears, grapes and oranges—are adding colour and variety to shops in Europe and Asia, while lucious Australian apples and pears come to Kenya's principal fresh fruit export centres.

Apples and pears constitute Australia's principal fresh fruit exports, averaging about 5,000,000 cases and 1,000,000 cases respectively a year. Of last year's total of apples and pear exports, Kenya purchased nearly 11,000 cases of apples and some pears.

The apple and pear picking season starts in the State of Queensland in January, and ends with a flourish in the State of Tasmania in May.

Thousands of apple, factory and pear packers spend their annual holidays caring for their fruit.

METICULOUS CARE

Beyond the farm, however, there is meticulous care that the future consumer of apples and pears shall receive the fruit in the best possible condition. The apples and pears are packed individually wrapped in padded tissue paper and packed in special containers. Government inspectors examine the containers, and the fruit, certifying them fit for export.

The Australian Apple and Pear Board, the export authority of all Australian apples and pears, inspects each year, about 100,000 cases of apples and pears. The grades come mainly from the States of Queensland, New South Wales, Victoria, and Western Australia.

BOXES INSPECTED

The inspectors examine a sample of each box and a representative sample of each export container. The boxes are checked at random from each of the varieties packed by every grower, and if the fruit complies with export regulations a certificate is issued. During the inspection, the fruit box in conformity with the marking on the fruit are all taken into consideration. The certificate indicates that in the opinion of the inspector, the fruit complies with the regulations and if it is found to be in conformity with the grade of loading.

APPLES FRESH AS OFF THE TREE

When you bite an Australian apple, you sink your teeth into a fruit that is as fresh and crunchy as when it was picked from the tree. That, thanks to modern packing and refrigeration in apples, has been the experience of millions of people who enter the world over for many years.

Australia's high apple-growing industry, established by the Government in 1910 years ago, now produces about 1,000,000 bushels of fruit of which 90 per cent is sent abroad.

Most of the apples are grown in 11,000 bushels of Tasmania, whose exports of fruit last year were valued at more than 15 million dollars.

BEE-KEEPERS HELP

Pollination of the trees is helped by thousands of bee-keepers who tend their hives in orchards, covering thousands of miles.

Harvesting of the apples is carried out in Tasmania between August and May, and the fruit is packed and shipped to other parts of the world.

Thriving dried fruit exporters thank two men

THE history of every industry is sprinkled with the names of far-sighted men who have had the courage to face the face of great difficulties, to persevere in new ventures until success has been won.

Australia's dried fruit industry, now producing thousands of tons of sun-dried raisins, currants and sultanas each year, owes much to two men of vision who, in the early days of Australia's settlement, were prepared to battle with the forces of nature to create a prosperous area of vineyards.

These men were the Chaffey brothers who arrived in Australia from Canada to establish horticulture settlements, along Australia's mighty river, the Murray, in the State of Victoria and South Australia.

Progress was at first rapid and most promising, but within five years the cholerae pest had broken out and the loss of irrigation facilities which followed led to the abandonment of the scheme.

HUNDREDS LEFT

Hundreds of settlers left the area, and eventually only the Chaffey brothers remained. However, the Chaffey brothers, who were the last of the original settlers, were the last to leave the area.

GRANNY GOES ON GROWING

PROBABLY the most profitable fruit to grow in Australia's temperate zone is the apple. It is a fruit which has been grown in Australia since the days of the first settlers.

The tree was planted in 1838 and the first crop was produced in 1840. It is a fruit which has been grown in Australia since the days of the first settlers.

Telescopic cases prevent bruising

AUSTRALIAN fresh apples, pears, oranges, grapes, peaches, paw-paws and other soft stone fruits are now being successfully marketed in telescopic cases.

The development and promotion of the use of telescopic cases for fruit and vegetables is a new development in the fruit and vegetable industry.

MORE EFFECTIVE

The telescopic case contains the fruit in a protective cushion of air, which prevents bruising and damage to the fruit.

THE AIR PASSENGERS' SAFETY LIES IN THEIR HANDS

By Grace Lamont

So smoothly and steadily that but for the gentle tilt of her shining wingtips one could hardly believe she is moving. The airliner speeds across the clear morning sky over Lake Rudolf, a burning sheet of brass in the new-pewter sun, 30,000 ft. above the Great Rift Valley, the heads of 500 m.p.h. for her.

Probably some of the 190-odd passengers for the Eastern Directorate of Civil Aviation, in whose hands lies the responsibility for the safe landing, taking off and flying of all aircraft.

It is the East African Directorate of Civil Aviation, which was set up in 1931, which is responsible for the safety of the aircraft.

INMATE ADMITS

The I.M.C. only admits, however, to one regret, namely, that the aircraft's movements, which were controlled by the I.M.C. and the Director Controller, were not as smooth as they should have been.

DENTAL MANICURES BRING OUT THOSE RADIANT SMILES

MANICURED teeth will be offset to customers who wear a "Dental Beauty Pack," operated by the Scaling Center. It offers four courses for manicured teeth — pink, brown, pearl and white. It is the most appropriate course for a customer with yellow teeth. Pink is best for young girls and blue for colored girls. The permanent enamel-reinforced the crown of white teeth.

He said the course were not only to add beauty and just the eye teeth. "We would not be of to women."

Twenty years ahead in Nairobi news

By the Publishers of East Africa from their U. A. International RESEARCH into the history of East Africa's past reveals fascinating glimpses into the lives of Jewish traders who visited these parts, some of whom indeed came to those parts of days established colonies here, evidence of which still survives to further away than the Nile and the Nile delta.

It is not of those far-off days that the Rev. Julian Caribbe writes in the Jews of Nairobi, 1918-1921. His research is with 40 years of history of a comparatively small Jewish community in earlier years never more than 100 strong, living at least 1,000 miles away from any similar group.

Choosing to bring the story of the Jews of Nairobi to the attention of the general public, the publishers of East Africa have arranged for the publication of this book, which is the first of a series of similar books, each dealing with a different aspect of the history of East Africa.

The book is written by a leading authority on the subject, and is a most interesting and informative study of the life of the Jewish community in East Africa.

It is a most interesting and informative study of the life of the Jewish community in East Africa.

Dangers ahead

What is the present for the Jews in Nairobi? The writer does not think that the future is so bright, but he does think that there are dangers ahead.

While the Jewish community in Nairobi is still small, it is growing, and it is becoming more and more established in the city. This is a good thing, but it also means that there are dangers ahead.

The dangers ahead are of two kinds. One is the danger of anti-Semitism, which is still a real danger in many parts of the world. The other is the danger of the Jews becoming too assimilated into the local community, and losing their identity as a distinct group.

The writer thinks that the Jewish community in Nairobi should be aware of these dangers, and should take steps to avoid them.

Flowers of the park

NEW people, searching for a game in the Nairobi Royal National Park, have noticed the colorful flowers which are in bloom in the shade of the thick trees and bushes in the park.

These flowers are of many different colors, and are very beautiful. They are a real treat for the eye, and are a great addition to the park's scenery.

First reprimand then suspension

Three Kenya Football Association is at last taking steps to discipline its members for offenses on the field — and for the first time to recommend that football clubs be suspended.

Clubs have been circumscribed with details of the reprimand law — "Fouls and Misconduct" — and a suspension of the 1934 decision of the International Football Association to the best way to interpret law 12. At the end it added recommendations of penalties which have been threatened out after hours of discussion.

The recommendations start at a letter of reprimand for a first caution by the referee and gradually increase to a one day suspension for a player sent off the field five times.

Efforts are also to be made to keep records of all disciplinary by referees, usually with the F.A. — and a warning is also given that if club officials will not cooperate in controlling their players the referee will be instructed from the competition officials to suspend from taking part in football for a certain period.

Referees and Kenia drew 2-2 in a close Ashoka League fixture at Nakuru. Nakuru are now second top in the competition, two points behind North Nyman, whom they meet at Nakuru on July 14.

George Highlands, have lost their position to Nakuru's Super Legion to the Rangers. Rangers have a two-point lead over the players, but they are little to be feared as they have been shown by their team to draw the week-end.

Mr. Maudling checks on constitutional 'homework'

WITH the air of a benign schoolmaster the Colonial Secretary, Mr. Maudling, dropped in to check the homework that has been done since Lancaster House. Then, after setting the next exercises, left the politicians to get on with preparing for the most important lesson, independence.

But "I have not started to envisage a date for independence," he said. "I will take things by stages and see how long things take." Mr. Maudling brought across a plan to buy 1,000,000 acres of land in the Eastern Africa for settlement, at a probable cost of more than £15,000,000, for which the British Government is to make grants and loans.

He repeated the long-term effect of this scheme to be seen. "It is not a one-off thing," he said. "The Government would be forced to take decisions to ensure that Kenya had a sufficient number of settlers before self-government and independence."

REAL FEAR

"Wait and see" was his comment when asked for Britain's view after Africa. "But to disintegrate after 1962," he said, "is not what we want." He said that he was deeply concerned about the situation in the Congo. "I think the Coalition Government has made a mistake. It has not done enough to ensure that the Congo has a sufficient number of settlers before self-government and independence."

A WELCOME

The Public Service Commission which started its work last week is to be welcomed by the regions with the centre through regions which have their own powers of appointing public servants. There was a stern discussion of the committee that the Kadu and Mr. Nya and Mr. Mbe walked out of the meeting before the Colonial Secretary and the Council of Ministers. Harmony was restored, however, every day when Mr. Ngala and Mr. Mbe returned to the appointed meeting.

Mr. Maudling indicated that special interests would be represented at future major constitutional discussions, including the next constitutional conference.

There was a general welcome to Mr. Maudling's presence from the African and Convention of Association, who said that the appointment of the necessary representatives.

MILES PROVES THE SCOUT

ZIPP! Bags of It!

That's the phrase that seems to have sprung to the mind of nearly everyone who has tested out the SCOUT in East Africa. Its superb 4-cylinder engine, developed from the famous International line of heavier power units, has also proved itself really economical in use, yet it is of higher capacity (2 1/2 litres) than usual in most vehicles of this nature.

Allied to four-wheel drive, stylish lines, tough suspension and driving comfort, this engine is the guts of a vehicle which can be driven like a fast touring car, but which will also tackle deep mud, heavy sand, rocky and mountainous conditions and heavy going generally, with plenty of power in hand.

LENGTH AND ARDUOUS TESTING OVER THE WORST THAT EAST AFRICA CAN OFFER HAS CONFIRMED THESE CLAIMS. BUT—PROOF OF THE PUDDING!—YOU MUST TRY OUT A SCOUT FOR YOURSELF.

There's nothing odd about me!

I'm not odd — I'm in the office at 8.30 a.m. — sometimes a bit late — the same as you are. On Saturday afternoon I go to a football match. Saturday evening I take the wife to the cinema. On Sunday I go with the family to Mass. That's what I do. I'm not odd — I'm a Catholic. They think I believe all kinds of nonsense — like saying to have my sins forgiven, praying to a priest, saying that the Pope can't get a name wrong. But I'm not odd. I can tell you what I really believe.

THE CATHOLIC ENQUIRY CENTRE has been set up because many of our non-Catholic friends want to know the facts. We cannot give you the facts. But you can give your facts about the Faith and remove misunderstandings. You may intend never to become a Catholic. But we can still help you. It is always worth while to learn something new. Read today for the extraordinary brother group details of a full course of books which will be sent to you. FREE if you are further interested. As this Enquiry Centre is founded for non-Catholics, Catholics are requested not to apply.

FREE with CONFERENCE (please send your name, address, and telephone number) to the Enquiry Centre, 10, St. Paul's Road, London, E.C.4. Tel. 01-253 4444.

It continues in the realization by the woman that she has a long way to go before she can be considered as a true citizen of the world.

The central figure of the novel is a young woman named Maria, who is a student at a boarding school. She is a very bright and ambitious girl, but she is also very lonely and isolated. Her father is a doctor, and she is the only child in the family. She is very close to her mother, but she is also very independent and self-reliant.

THE LIFE AT A RED UNIVERSITY—BY A KENYA STUDENT

THE idea of writing about the Kenya students in the Soviet Union has become very necessary because of the kind of statements which have been appearing in the Press in Britain and Kenya. It would bring no useful purpose if I wrote about the life and studies of the students without trying to light the ustruths contained in some of these articles.

There are only 32 Kenya students in Russia, a mere handful among many foreign students from all over the world. In Moscow's Friendship University, alone there are 1,100 foreign students from 70 countries. The States represented include 20 in Africa, 10 in Latin America, 14 in Asia and 14 Arab countries. Of these Kenya has the fewest students.

It is not possible to speak of the general educational system in the Soviet Union. Our students are trained in their own countries. # ACROBATS LEGS FOR WATER HAM

Two much better another page living on a Danish experimental farm are being taught to walk on their hind legs. The test, one of a series in progress to find out how much "the little things" in a piggy bank can be made to produce better meat, has not yet produced any positive high jumps.

But it has improved the quality of ham. Officials of the Technical State Experiment Station say the experiments are important for Danish pig-breeding and also for countries who buy Danish bacon hampers, hams or other pork products. It is especially important since experiments are being made on other countries. These animals are taken with their legs up. The piggy bank is on another pig. Four one-time ham hampers were made to find out how much "the little things" in a piggy bank can be made to produce better meat.

To get the most up on their hind legs, farm officials have raised two piggy banks enough to make it impossible for the pig to feed while standing on its feet.

The experiments are not planned yet, farm officials admit. But the high jumping piggy bank is not yet produced any positive high jumps.

AUSTRALIAN TRADE DRILLING

Reliable materials and equipment for Kenya

THIS supply of top-quality building materials and tools at competitive world prices, is something the Australian building supplies industry can be relied upon to provide for her customers in Kenya.

equipment for Kenya

The industry is well-established and geared to large-scale export of all its products.

More than 1,000 factories employing more than 60,000 men are directly engaged in the manufacture of building materials and tools.

The value of production from these plants last year was approximately $2,180,000,000.

Individual Australian manufacturers last year achieved outstanding records in overseas markets.

The industry in Australia exports to Kenya:

... High quality Australian equipment and materials...
... to the Kenyan market...

Hydraulic drilling by hand

A NEW hydraulically operated hand-drill, believed to be the first of its type in the world, has been introduced by a South Australian manufacturer.

It deals efficiently with a wide variety of jobs from the drilling of shallow steels, heavy timber and rock, to the drilling of diamond coring holes to depths of 100 ft.

The hydraulic hand-drill consists basically of a petrol engine driving a hydraulic gear pump through a reduction drive. The pump circulates oil from a reservoir to a gear-type motor through a flexible hose and control valve and then returns the oil to the reservoir through a second hose.

Simple, reliable and inexpensive operation and extreme portability are outstanding features of the equipment which has been developed for the Civil Engineering Department in New South Wales and South Australia as well as authorities in other building and construction fields.

Australian's latest building... the 2800, Ministry headquarters of the Australian Mutual Provident Society being Greater Quay, Sydney, south of New South Wales. The building was completed and officially opened last February.

MODERN CONCRETE IS 'TAILOR-MADE' TO JOB

NO longer is it sufficient when building in concrete for the architect to merely specify quantities of sand, cement, aggregate and water.

With modern technological advances made recently in Australia, concrete is tailor-made specifically for certain jobs.

These special concretes are now available largely through the development of cement additives and the associated chemical industry in Australia which has grown to meet the increasing demand for their use.

Other additives retard the setting of cement in hot climates, speed it up in cold climates, facilitate deep concrete placement and plastic concrete.

An Australian firm has also developed surface treatments such as oil-resisting floor, chemical surface hardener and dust preventer, a clear glass for all masonry surfaces for external use and preservation of tiled roofs, and a spray-on sealing compound to ensure proper curing on concrete.

The additives are being reported in increasing quantities ground without damage by slumps.

Other additives retard the setting of cement in hot climates, speed it up in cold climates, facilitate deep concrete placement and plastic concrete.

Pre-cut furniture kits in demand

A surprising Australian furniture business is pre-cut, ready-to-assemble furniture kits.

The kits produce a wide range of drawers, bookshelves, wardrobes, dining, bedroom and occasional tables, all made to assembly with the minimum amount of effort by even a housewife.

No tools are needed — just a small screwdriver.

These latest items of furniture are sold in Australia and have new markets in the Pacific Islands and New Guinea.

IN SECTIONS

Each piece is made in sections by a battery of modern sawing machines which ensure that all joints fit perfectly wherever carefully stapled wooden pins are used for strength and durability.

All units are made from solid timbers which can be polished in any desired colour or painted.

The fully-stapled construction has simply arranged the assembled state of furniture.

The assembly is a completely trouble-free operation which takes only a few minutes. The major sections of a unit are connected by a set of screws which are then inserted which enter pre-cut slots.

METAL DISCS

The discs can all be stored in a small case — and are very convenient to use. The screwdrivers are then contained by a set of metal discs which give a smart, compact effect.

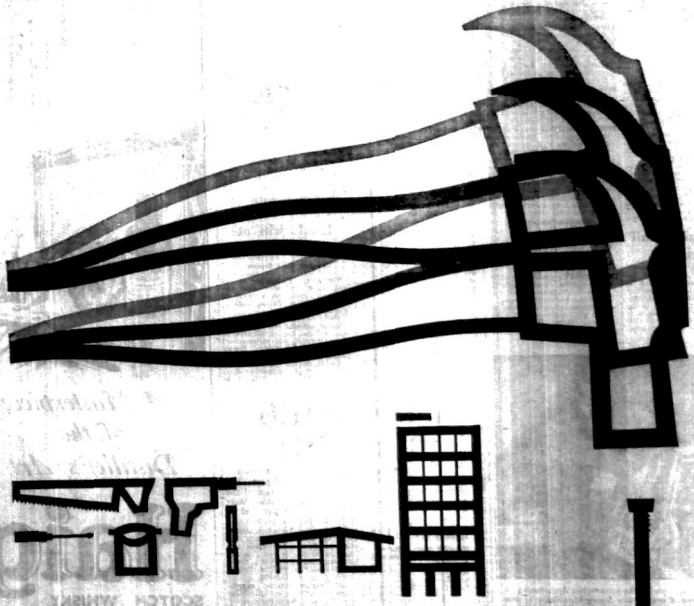

All furniture units are designed by experts who use their drawings to govern the method of construction. This is adapted to almost any type of furniture for both domestic and commercial use.

The units are carefully packed in tough cartons and each assembly is marked for easy assembly.

Recently changing skylines of Australia's cities and towns are visible signs of the equally rapidly expanding economy. Building construction has become the largest tertiary industry in the country and in the city of Melbourne, the capital of Victoria, is no exception. Buildings to the value of $2,000,000 were completed in 1958 and at present 15 buildings being completed represent an outlay of $12,000,000. In Sydney, a new opera house, a new opera house, a new hotel and other major works are being built while new buildings are either under way or about to be started at Sydney University.

While various power-operated tools are popular with many 'do-it-yourself' carpenters, the basic hand tools always have their place and are considered essential equipment by all them. All main hand tools used by Australians are now largely designed and manufactured in Australia.

Suspended ceiling design

A new, fully concealed suspension system for ceiling panels, in which every panel is easily detachable, has been developed by an Australian firm in Sydney, New South Wales. It is attracting great interest among architects and manufacturers of building materials.

The system has great simplicity and is very suitable for use in combination with exposed ceiling members in one or two directions.

GREAT SUCCESS

Installations in Australia have been completed with great success, using a variety of Australian ceiling materials. The system consists of heavy members, made of aluminum extrusions painted to one direction, and installed normally by two feet apart.

Since correct positioning of the panels in both vertical and horizontal direction is provided, a first class installation is easily obtained.

INSTALLED FLUSH

Another interesting feature of the system is that exposed members, when required, can be installed flush with the panels, be shored upwards, downwards, or formed above, with suspended panels or wooden, and thereby provide a clean, finished appearance.

Also, when exposed members are used, every panel is easily detachable. World-wide patents have been sought for the system.

Member demands fair share in Kenya's economic planning

REGIONS MUST HAVE SAY, CALL APPEAL FOR CONTINUING COALITION

Kenya's Planning and Development Commission should have representatives from all the regions, the Member for Nandi, Mr. J. Serooy, urged in the Legislative Council yesterday.

"We are going to have a new constitution next year. Any interim planning should be as far as possible anticipate that eventually. We should aim to be regionally-minded," he said in endorsing a Private Member's motion.

"The regions co-operation would be needed, and they said that they had had a fair share in the economic planning. This is why I am suggesting the formation of a sub-committee to start this preparatory work, to see that the new constitution will not start to be imposed on us before we have had a say in it."

STANDARD STAFF REPORTERS

The four private and interest sections of the Kenya Planning Commission, the Regions, the Federation of Kenya Regions, and the Kenya Planning Commission should be able to advise and make recommendations but they should be members of the Commission. Mr. Serooy's motion read: "That the Commission be expanded to include representatives from all the regions, in order to ensure that they have a say in the economic planning of the country, and that the Commission be empowered to start to be imposed on us before we have had a say in it."

NO ANSWER

VIJA FESTIVAL CELEBRATES DISCOVERY OF NILE SOURCE

Portrait of explorer
[In a peaceful corner of Hyde Park, not amidst green grass and overhanging trees, stands a study site, quite unknown to the average Londoner. Inscribed on the face of the stone are the following words:—

In Memory of
SPENKE
Victoria Nyama
and the Nile
1862

Who was Spenke? asks the passer-by. Never heard of him! And until comparatively recently the average man would "Nile" range a ball in the minds of some. It had some Mosaic floated among the burghers?

SPEKE SOLVED AGE-OLD RIDDLE

ONE hundred years ago, the British explorer, John Hanning Speke, portrayed above, solved a puzzle the world had puzzled for centuries; he found the source of the Nile. After months of travelling across the African continent, he reached the court of King Mutasa of Buganda, near what is now Uganda's capital, Kampala. After leaving Speke, for months, Mutasa provided him with an escort to take him to the source of the great river flowing north of Lake Victoria.

Snow-water

It was Herodotus, an ingenious Greek traveller and historian, who first tried to trace the source of the Nile. He was the first to venture into the area which is now the Nile valley. It was he who first discovered the source of the Nile and why it was there.

One theory he was given by some clever Greeks was that the Nile came from the snow-melting of the Himalayas. This theory was not accepted at the time.

Egyptians unaware of river's starting point

From the earliest times the Egyptians themselves supposed the Nile and the Nile-giving mountains to be far and they have not where the water comes from.

It is to those traders that we must look for the information that led to the Nile's source. In 1862 B.C. Speke, the first of the Nile's source, was a fairly accurate map of the Nile showing its source and tributaries from Abyssinia to the lake.

Two lakes

The Roman explorer, Ptolemy, wrote that he was led to two lakes in the Nile's source. He was led to the source of the Nile by the Nile's source. He was led to the source of the Nile by the Nile's source.

By traders

It was an interesting study to show the Nile's source through Africa. There is conclusive evidence to show that the Nile's source is in East Africa. This discovery was made by the Nile's source.

The Nile's source is in East Africa. The Nile's source is in East Africa. The Nile's source is in East Africa.

THERE ARE MANY REASONS

Why the TAUNUS 17M is so popular

ERE ARE JUST FOUR OF THEM...

- ECONOMY: Starting with the low price, economy is continued with low cost operation and low upkeep. Maximum power with minimum fuel consumption is just one feature of the Taunus.
- COMFORT: Luxurious upholstery, minimum passenger space and improved suspension, give wonderful comfort and stability with greater performance.
- POWER: The improved 4-cylinder engine is available in 1.5 or 1.7 litres, with fully synchronized 4-speed transmission. The choice is yours.
- PRACTICALITY: The combination of all these points makes the Taunus 17M the most practical and desirable car that money can buy.

DONKEY WORK IN 1870

Up to 1870 the normal source of man-made light in East Africa came from the centuries-old tallow-lamp. Then, in that momentous year for the future of this country an affiliate company of the new ESSO STANDARD (EAST AFRICA) LIMITED imported the first illuminating Kerosene.

OLD AND NEW

A train passing over the old railway bridge (above) that spanned the Nile at Jinja.

A new bridge, seen above on the right, was made necessary after the building of the Owen Falls Dam had raised the water level. After reconstruction, the carriageway that had run 30ft. below the railway track was removed and the road was diverted to cross the Nile over the dam. The bridge now carries a single footpath underneath the railway line.

Power and to spare

For almost a decade, the Hydro Electric Power Plant at Owen Falls

has relied on Mobil D.T.E. Oil Heavy-Medium for its faultless operation. Mobil Oil East Africa Limited is proud to be associated with this great project of the Uganda Electricity Board which serves the country so well.

Railway ended isolation of Jinja

ALTHOUGH the Uganda Railway as originally conceived was completed in 1903, having touched the shores of Lake Victoria at Kisumu, there was, in fact, no direct rail link between Uganda and the coast for many years afterwards.

All merchandise consigned from Uganda had to be transported at Jinja, where British soldiers, carried across the lake by motor launch, had to be taken to Kisumu, where it continued its journey by rail. The first regular connection to Uganda was started at Jinja, on May 24, 1914, when a British commercial secretary took a motor launch to Kisumu.

The Governor's wife, Mrs. S. C. Tomkins, had been invited to drive home the first passenger train, but she had an accident and was unable to be present.

By telephone However, the ceremony was performed by the Governor and Mrs. Tomkins, who had decided the first rail "well and truly" by means of a telephone connection which had been arranged specially between the King and Government House, Nairobi.

Some 3,000 Banga laborers were engaged on the construction of the line, and it was not long before they had attempted to run it to the coast, where they did extremely well.

It was not until the Bongo Railway, as it was then called, had been built from Jinja to the terminus at Namagali on Lake Kioga, a distance of 80 miles — by the end of 1911.

This new line opened up large areas of Bukuli, which had already been cleared and cultivated, and it was estimated that 100,000 tons of produce would be carried to the coast.

A year had of course been estimated to elapse from the start of the railway and the Government had been given by the British Government to carry out the project.

A second visit to Jinja in 1911, when the railway was completed, was made by the Governor and his wife, who were accompanied by 30 passengers and 100 tons of cargo, which was carried to the coast by motor launch.

Overland traffic from each of the ports on Lake Victoria had steadily increased since the rail had been built, and during the year 1911, 1,000 tons of goods were handled at the port.

Traffic doubled Only one year later the figure had doubled as a result of the completion of the Bongo Railway, and by 1913, 2,000 tons of goods were handled at the port.

It is now possible to rail goods direct from Jinja to the coast, and the effect on this, new link made itself felt at Jinja as a port.

For instance, during the year 1913, only 100 tons of produce were handled at Jinja.

part, which 6,000 tons left the station on the railway wagon.

The construction of the famous Nile bridge at Jinja, which carried the railway and a road across the river into the Kampala area, was a highly unostentatious.

This was completed and officially opened on January 14, 1911, by Sir William Gowers, then Governor of Uganda, near Kampala, the ceremonial opening of the railway had direct rail across by the port of Mombasa.

Soil in use The bridge is still in service today, but it is being replaced by a new bridge, which will be the construction of the Owen Falls Dam.

The roadway, which ran below the railway line, was removed and it now crosses the Nile over the dam.

In the intervening years, Jinja has become a town of some importance on the Nile.

Today it is the home of Uganda's great Owen Falls hydro-electric scheme, which supplies power for the country's industrial and domestic needs. It is also the center of a large sugar-growing area, and has a flourishing textile industry.

Only last year the Owen Falls Hydro-Electricity Board, which is controlled by the Government, had a new installation of 100,000 kilowatts, and the cost by some 100,000 pounds.

It is as the city grows apace, and the Owen Falls scheme, such an important part of the modern high power scheme of today, more and more, that the Owen Falls Hydro-Electricity Board, which is controlled by the Government, has a picture of the Owen Falls Hydro-Electricity Board.

WHEN SPEKE DISCOVERED THE SOURCE OF THE VICTORIA NILE FOOTWEAR OF ANY KIND WAS ALMOST UNKNOWN. THE LOCAL INHABITANTS WALKED BARE-FOOTED, UNPROTECTED FROM EVERY FOOT-BORNE DISEASE, OF INJURY FROM THORNS, AND SNAKESBITE.

SINCE THEN TWO MODERN SHOE FACTORIES HAVE BEEN ESTABLISHED BY BATA IN EAST AFRICA, NOW PRODUCING OVER THREE MILLION PAIRS OF SHOES ANNUALLY, AND BARE FEET ARE SELDOM SEEN, WITH THE RESULT THAT FOOT-BORNE DISEASES AND INJURIES ARE COMPARATIVELY RARE.

ALMOST EVERY MONTH A NEW BATA SHOP IS OPENED, AND FINE FOOTWEAR IS NOW OBTAINABLE IN ALMOST EVERY TOWN IN UGANDA. BATA SHOPS LEAD EAST AFRICA FOR DESIGN, COMFORT AND SERVICE.

BATA SHOES ARE RIGHT UP TO DATE IN FASHION BUT DOWN TO EARTH IN PRICE, A DISCOVERY MOST PEOPLE HAVE ALREADY MADE. HAVE YOU?

THE SOURCE OF A RIVER AND A COUNTRY'S WEALTH...

From Jinja on the source of the Nile has sprung much of Uganda's wealth, and today is an historic occasion for Uganda and her people, marking as it does a century of progress.

Although the explorers are but a memory, their spirit lives on. Today men of vision are thinking and planning in terms, not of rivers to cross, but of factories to construct and build.

THE MADHYANI GROUP OF COMPANIES through the Foresight and vision of one man, the late Muljibhai P. Madhyani, has built up in East Africa a huge industrial concern; an enterprise founded on sugar. Last year they invested with tanks and tractors fly now produces some of the world's finest sugar, in quantities which rose in 1961 to 3,000 tons of crushed cane per day.

Today, Uganda's need for local industry is greater than ever before. The Madhyani Group of Companies has faith in the future of East Africa; by continued expansion and the development of new industries it hopes to bring even greater prosperity to the people it serves, both now and in the future. The Company's contribution towards Uganda's total revenue during 1959/60 was 5.8%. This figure was increased to 7.69% during 1960/61. The Group employs 10,820 workers with an administrative staff of 500.

STANDARD RASE ABOVE THE MAD CHAOS—BY LEARNING TO FLY

AS you rattle
down the 300
clacking, spine-jarring
pages from Nairobi to Mombasa, there is always the cheerful
thought that once there
you have to come back again sometime... presented the old germ can still stand up to it.

If you like the low painful and then a coloring
in the Coast by rail
it will take two whole nights.
It is more a matter of time, but the most enjoyable and comfortable and quick and in the long run the best way of all. Use by all at the centre of your own level aircraft.

It is surprising how many people still hold old-fashioned views about learning to fly.
To most low popular fallacies don't it stand, it is not really so far from difficult to learn.

OTHER WATCHES both prospective pupils and to leave how to fly, who will teach them, and how much it will cost to obtain a Private Pilot's Licence.

Mr. M. R. CHILDS, the R.E.A.A. committee and Mr.
Eric Cook, both have just issued their booklet.

At the other end of the scale come those instructors —

Alan, Colin, John, Whitfield and Maurice Williams, who are all enthusiastic enthusiasts of the Aero Club of East Africa, which has its headquarters at Wilson Airport.

All flying facilities available to Nairobi are under the control of Campden House, and Vanderwal and Wilson, Air
for hire, and the service
provides full facilities.
Private Pilot's Licence Charge varies between 70/- and 100/- for the full instructor's fee — and all

There is no need at all to book like the busy, expert instructor type in the R.A.F. development. He has to fly yourself.

If you have to worry about it leading from little aircraft to heavy transport, you can learn to fly in a "big" later — which costs a bit more than the 10 s.m.a. rate.

Responsible, efficient, handsome and just ordinary common,
you will see the way through to a Private Pilot's Licence.
Practically full instruction and a good R.E. on your right.
It is also East Africa's most popular form of travel — in fact, in businessmen who travel extensively and who do not want to fly.

The well-known Nairobi prospective who realize this

Full facilities provided for pupils

necessary lesson, in navigation and ground subjects are given free.

Only school time is charged.
NO FAILURES

Instructor takes a steady personal interest in their pupils —
— none has had a failure yet — and a licence is practically guaranteed after six hours flight.

This makes the total hours count, from your amateur to qualified pilot, from 12 to 18 hours of from 27/6 to 33/-.
It is a small price in any considering the excellent equipment of a pilot's licence.

You can take a plane for yourself at a reduced rate and take off in the morning for a busy weekend. A 10-hour day of this sort, with two passengers would cost no more than 27/6
— and you will have the plane for 12 hours.

New shoe creations designed for comfort

The 1942 shoe ranges are a joy to the eye and a delight to the feet. Those women who prefer new heels can find them this year in just the right shape, and designers have realized at last that thousands of women do not want all their clients want to wear, and the new, lower stacked heels are beautifully shaped and slightly waisted even for country wear.

The stiletto heel has gone. The heel is now set in the place of the former in the heel with a wider surface — which gives perfect shoes and carries a heavier load of weight. It is often slightly waisted. To place the shoe on the ground comes a whole range of shapes.

These include the curved, to the slighter often the ankle, and every other size of woman's shoe and the new styles of the last addition in 1942 is the 'cushion' heel, which comes from top to deep recess in a 'cushion' shape of the heel. Grey leather or suede shoes.

Shoes come back to fashion in a big way. It is used the cup open-backed sandals and other versions of the fragile strapped shoe.

Sandals get the loopy treatment, in patent and suede, often with laced-up details, making the ankle. Colors in shades range from off-white through to black.

You save fuel with MICHELIN 'X'

Hundreds of tests—in all climates and on every type of road—have proved that less fuel is consumed when the vehicle is running on Michelin 'X' tyres. Because of their special design and manufacturing techniques Michelin 'X' tyres have less rolling resistance and therefore less fuel is required.

Results of R.E.A.A.-observed tests in East Africa

The ultimate factors—other than tyre—affecting fuel consumption, each test was made over two identical runs, first with the car on ordinary tyres and then on Michelin 'X' tyres.

In reply to letters by K. Perrow, my husband's opponent in the Agricultural Land Commission, I am pleased to say that the Government is not only prepared to consider the views of the public but also to take into account the views of the landowners. # EAST AFRICAN TESTING OVER 40,000 MILES PROVES THE SCOUT ZIPP! Bags of it! That's the phrase that seems to have sprung to the mind of nearly everyone who has tested out the SCOUT in East Africa. Its superb 4-cylinder engine, developed from the famous International line of heavier power units, has also proved itself really economical in use, yet it is of higher capacity (2 1/2 litres) than usual in most vehicles of this nature.

Allied to four-wheel drive, stylish lines, tough suspension and driving comfort, this engine is the guts of a vehicle which can be driven like a fast touring car, but which will also tackle deep mud, heavy sand, rocky and mountainous conditions and heavy going generally, with plenty of power in hand.

LENGTHY AND ARDUOUS TESTING OVER THE WORST THAT EAST AFRICA CAN OFFER HAS CONFIRMED THESE CLAIMS. BUT—PROOF OF THE PUDDING!—YOU MUST TRY OUT A SCOUT FOR YOURSELF.

The multi-purpose INTERNATIONAL Scout

Shown always on a plain-van, the Scout can be equipped without the Street Coach, or easily built up in steel or canvas into a fully equipped all-purpose vehicle. It is adaptable to all operating needs. We shall be pleased to arrange a trial of this remarkable and versatile machine for you today!

'REBELS' QUIT

A BILLIARDS row in Maluru over prices changed at the only public table in the town has ended with the 'rebels' building their own sports club.

Their story is that the manager of the Malanda Hotel, Mr. A. McHardy, charges 1/6 a cue, which means that if four people play it costs them 4/6. They refused to pay, but his reply was to set the price up to 2/- a cue.

The result was a handful of 'rebels' who have now formed a club of their own. The club has 12 members and has elected a committee. The club will be called the 'Crane Club' and its future plans are to build a new table and to have a regular league of play.
