

Abstract

This chapter introduces the Earth Charter and discusses its value as a tool for teaching about sustainable development in the university classroom. The chapter includes examples of how some U.S. faculty members are using the Earth Charter in their courses and provides a selected list of Earth Charter teaching resources.