

UNIVERSITY OF NAIROBI

Inaugural Lecture

Achieving Oral Health for all in Kenya:
A Reality or a Myth?

by

Jacob Thurania Kaimenyi

BDS (Nairobi), MDS (Mangalore), PhD (Nairobi)

Deputy Vice-Chancellor (Academic Affairs)

And

Professor of Periodontology

Venue: Multipurpose Hall, 8-4-4 Building,
University of Nairobi (Main Campus)

Thursday, 18th May, 2006

UNIVERSITY OF NAIROBI LIBRARY
P. O. Box 30197
NAIROBI

ACHIEVING ORAL HEALTH FOR ALL IN KENYA: A REALITY OR A MYTH?

Inaugural Lecture

By

Jacob Thurania Kaimenyi

BDS (Nairobi), MDS (Mangalore), PhD (Nairobi)

Deputy Vice-Chancellor (Academic Affairs)
and

Professor of Periodontology
Department of Periodontology, Community and Preventive Dentistry

E-mail: jkaimenyi@uonbi.ac.ke

Website: www.uonbi.ac.ke

Typesetting and Printing:

School of Journalism
University of Nairobi
P.O. Box 30197- 00100
Nairobi, Kenya

PROF. JACOB THURANIRA KAIMENYI

BDS (Nairobi), MDS (Mangalore), PhD (Nairobi)

Deputy Vice-Chancellor (Academic Affairs)
and
Professor of Periodontology

Table of Contents

Contents	Page
Inaugural lecture title and contact details	i
Dedication	iv
Biography	v
Abbreviations	xii
Introduction	1
General information on Kenya	2
Organization of health services in Kenya	4
General health policy	4
Sources of finances for health in Kenya	8
Oral health services infrastructure	10
Consequences of the current health care system in Kenya	10
Funding options and constraints in oral health financing	11
Specific problems that hamper oral health financing	11
A summary of the oral health status of the Kenyan people based on some of the studies carried out to-date	12
National Oral Health Policy and critical review of efforts made towards its implementation	23
Conclusion	43
Acknowledgement	44
References	45
Appendices	50