

FACULTY OF ARTS

Introduction

The Faculty of Arts with an enrolment of 8,329 students and 202 full-time and 42 part-time academic staff is one of the largest faculties in the University. The Faculty has nine Departments of: Linguistics and Languages, Communication Skills, Literature, Geography and Environmental Studies, History and Archaeological Studies, Psychology, Sociology and Social Work, Political Science and Public Administration, and Philosophy and Religious Studies and one sub -department of French. Within the Faculty there are also the Confucius Institute and the Centre for Human Rights and Peace. In addition, the Faculty collaborates with other institutions such as Utalii College, the Kenya Institute of Administration and the University Library in offering some of its academic programs.

Academic Programs

The Faculty offers a large number of competitive, demand-driven programs ranging from diploma, bachelor, master, post-graduate diploma and Ph.D. The diploma programs include those in: Social work and social development, criminology and social order, cultural tourism, natural resource management, philosophy and psychology. Apart from the mainstream bachelor programs leading to major or minor in various departments, there are three professional programs: Psychology counseling, social work and criminology and criminal justice. At the master level programs in core disciplines of the departments are strengthened by those in specialized areas including Master in Public Administration, master in various clustered areas of sociology such as rural sociology and community development, counseling and disaster management, master in human rights and peace, master in translation, master in German studies, master in Kiswahili studies, master in armed conflict and peace studies, master in biodiversity and natural resource management and master in library studies. The Ph.D. degree program is offered by nearly all departments.
