The African Human Rights Moot Court Competition has become the largest annual gathering on the continent of students and lecturers of law. Established in 1992, 1093 teams from 139 universities, representing 48 African countries, have over the last 20 years participated in this premier event on the university and human rights calendar of the continent.

The Competition aims to prepare a new generation of lawyers to argue cases of alleged human rights violations before the newly established African Court on Human and Peoples' Rights, which is operational since 2008. The programme is organised each year by the Centre for Human Rights, in collaboration with a faculty of law in a host country on the continent.

In 2012, the Moot Court Competition was held at the Universidade Eduardo Mondlane of Maputo, Mozambique. Some 65 African universities attended.

The 22nd African Human Rights Moot Court Competition will be held at the University of Western Cape from 2 to 7 September 2013
