

OSCES TRAINING

5th March , 2014.

Partnerships for Innovative Medical Education in Kenya (PRIME-K) trains faculty members from the UoN College of Health Sciences, Department of Surgery.

Dr. Kefa Bosire, PRIME-K AIM 1 lead, trained the participants on medical student's evaluation with a particular focus on Objective Structural Clinical Examination (OSCE).

The training aims to strengthen delivery of curriculum in the surgical departments by improving evaluation using innovative approaches at undergraduate and post graduate levels.

The training attracted over 40 renowned professors and doctors from the Department of Surgery.
