

Department Set to Receive New Students

The department of Human Anatomy is prepared to receive the new first year medical, dental, nursing, medical laboratory and pharmacy students. These students who will be reporting to the University on 14th September 2015, will spend their first week to register for their various courses. They will thereafter go through a week of orientation. The highlight of the orientation week is the address by University officials and the final address by the Vice-Chancellor, Prof. Peter Mbithi, on Thursday September 17, 2015, which all freshers are expected to attend. At the department level Students will be informed of the different learning venues and facilities at their disposal, learning schedules, technical staff, lecturers, class coordinators and mentors. Learning will commence from 21st September 2015. We wish all the freshers well as they join the prestigious University of Nairobi.
