

UoN and Murdoch University discuss collaboration

The University of Nairobi and Murdoch University, Australia have entered into talks on possible areas of collaboration.

In a meeting between the two institutions, it was discussed and agreed that the partnership will focus on agriculture, geology, engineering and physical sciences.

Speaking on behalf of the Vice-Chancellor, Deputy Vice-Chancellor, Academic Affairs, Prof. Henry Mutoro welcomed the initiative saying that the University is keen on collaborations in various disciplines.

Mr. David Doepel, Chairman, Africa Research Group, Murdoch University, said that the institute is looking to develop stronger bilateral ties with UoN in different areas of study.